SEA SAFETY PLEDGE BY BERLIN

ALARMING ZEPPELIN RUMORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Rumors are current here that the last Zeppelin raid on London has resulted in something approaching a catastrophe.

Within a week there have been three raids. Since the beginning of the war there have been but twenty-one in all. These three, coming in such sinister succession, and coupled with the remarkable article by Count Reventlow, cabled from Berlin by way of London, have given rise to the belief that the Zeppelin campaign has begun in earnest.

London has put an iron clad censorship on Zeppelin news. Of the last raid no word was allowed to come to this country except that the raid had occurred, and that there were no casualties, while the damage was slight.

There have been earnest efforts to get some further news. Many business firms here have cabled their London houses for information.

Individuals have cabled friends and relatives in London. In most cases these cables have drawn no replies whatever. They have either been suppressed by the censors or the replies have been held up.

Repeated inquiries addressed to London correspondents of the New York newspapers for a time drew no response.

Finally one correspondent was allowed to cable:

"Can't send any news, either cable or mail, of Zeppelin raids aside from official announcements."

It was recalled that at the time the Audacious was sunk an inquiry to a London newspaperman brought this reply:

"I can send nothing on the matter to which you refer."

The censor was so strict at the London end that there was not even any gossip over the cable wires about the Zeppelins. Ordinarily, the operators at either end exchange small items during lulls in business.

But inquiries from this end could draw nothing from the English operators today.

Whatever the Zeppelins did or did not do, it is evident that London does not want the world to know.

They have passed but one extended story on the recent raid on London proper. That was a "picture story" of a London crowd during the raid, and featured the enthusiasm and patriotism of the throngs. It gave no details of what actually occurred except that bombs fell in London.

Private advices said bombs set a fire near St. Paul's and that other fires were set in the theatre district.

If this were true, and if the bombs were dropped by the Zeppelins in their course, it would mean the big airships passed squarely across the heart of London and along the Strand.

Count Reventlow, in the article cabled by way of London, gives an idea of what may be expected in the future. He says:

"It is no exaggeration to say the whole German people are filled with a burning wish and a longing that there may be a field for the trial of all possible weapons which Germany can employ against England.

"The coming days of Autumn and early Winter, with the everlengthening night, will, we hope, provide plenty of opportunities to show London, the heart of them once world, what we think of its security, and we hope every visit will be more emphatic and thorough than the one before.

Germans Have Lost Score of Zeppelins

LONDON, Sept. 4 (by mail to New York).—More than a score, possibly thirty of the Zeppelin airships used by Germany in the war, have been destroyed. Many of these were shattered by the anti-aircraft guns defending English towns or brought down by English aeroplanes above the battle front on the continent. The exact totals of the Zeppelin losses will not be known until the war is over.

MAYOR PROBES FIRE

CHILDREN IMPERILLED BY INCENDIARY IN DORCHESTER

70 FLEE FIRE IN 3-ALARM BLAZE

Mayor Curley and Police Captain Charles Reardon of Dorchester station took personal hand today in quick investigation of the incendiary element of a three-alarm fire which burned a new, unoccupied house and damaged seven occupied tenement houses in the corner neighborhood of Corona and Dahlgren streets earlier in the day.

The fire and smoke drove sixteen families, comprising about seventy people, into the street in nightclothing or garments hastily seized. The entire district was panic-stricken.

Within the past three months there have been several suspicious fires in Dorchester. Many have started—or been set—under back piazzas at night.

Mayor Curley was driven in his red automobile to Dorchester police station. They motored to the fire scene. The Mayor inspected particularly the house

Auto License of Mrs. Slater's Son Is Revoked

The Highway Commission revoked today the automobile license of William M. H. Slater, younger son of Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater of Beacon street, Webster and Readville.

Slater was driving his car the night of August 12 when Miss Evelyn Quinn of Sheridan street, Jamaica Plain, one of two girls in the machine, was hurled out and fatally hurt after the car hit a telephone pole.

In announcing its decision today the Highway Commission said that Slater failed to show that the accident was not without serious fault on his part.

Last Wednesday Slater, with Major Thomas L. Walsh, brother of the Governor, as his counsel, came before the commission with a statement that the auto brakes failed to work when the machine struck a curve while running thirty-four miles an hour.

U. S. TRAINS GUNS ON MEXICO

By JOHN W. ROBERTS.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 14.—Every hour that passed increased the seriousness of the situation on the Mexican-American border today. These were the chief developments of the early forenoon:

1—A battery of American cannon was ordered trained upon Matamoras, the Mexican town across the Rio Grande held by Carranza troops.

2—The bodies of two Mexicans were found near Santa Maria, where Mexican and American troops engaged in battle yesterday.

3—Armed Mexicans invaded the Lacoma ranch, 20 miles west of Brownsville and owned by E. C. Telford, an American. They stole several horses, six saddles and large quantities of provisions.

The order to train the cannon upon Matamoras was given by the U. S. military authorities and was immediately obeyed, the guns being made ready for instant action.

TO ATTACK BROWNSVILLE?

No explanation for this act was given, but it was believed to be a precautionary measure taken in view of the many rumors afloat to the Matamoras intended to attack Brownsville on September 16, Mexico's national independence day.

The bodies of the two Mexicans found near Santa Maria were located by Texas Rangers. Both had been shot to death and it is believed that they died of the result of. In addition to the battery of guns trained on Matamoras, a line of trenches three miles long is being built by American soldiers on the Rio Grande facing the Mexican city.

Every able bodied American in this district has been sworn in as a special police officer in a vigilante committee working under the direction of the sheriff.

Wounds received in the battle with the American soldiers.

Both were khaki clothing and cloth leggings such as are used by Mexican soldiers. Their rifles and cartridge belts were gone, probably having been removed by their fleeing companions.

The invasion of the Lacoma ranch gave an indication of trouble in new quarters. Fifty Texas rangers were dispatched to track the raiding Mexicans down as soon as news of their attack on Telford's property arrived here.

More than 3,000 American soldiers are combing the Mesquite brush throughout this district in search for hidden bands of Mexican invaders. They are being aided by 400 Texas Rangers and armed civilians.

These forces are searching for the invaders over fifty square miles of territory along the Rio Grande.

KNOW TERRITORY WELL.

There is no doubt in the minds of the officials that the leaders of these bands are thoroughly acquainted with every inch of territory in Southwestern Texas. It is probable, owing to the fact that nearly every "peaceful" Mexican in this district is a spy for the bandits, that the invaders have been successful in evading their pursuers. More than 150 Mexicans have been arrested since yesterday's fight at Santa Maria. They vigorously protest their innocence, although arms and large quantities of ammunition

OUTPOSTS CLASH IN BALKANS

ATHENS, Sept. 14.—Unconfirmed reports of a clash between Bulgarian and Roumanian border patrols, in which ten men were killed and a dozen injured, reached here today. The advices intimated that the Bulgars were the aggressors, attacking the Roumanian patrol without warning.

By International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Skilled diplomats see war clouds growing large in the Balkans. The signs all point, they assert, to war between Bulgaria and Roumania.

It is apparent from carefully worded dispatches coming from Sofia and Bucharest that great events are developing at both capitals. A Bucharest dispatch of considerable length received here today carried a report that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria had gone to the "manoeuvre camp" of his army. The remainder of the dispatch was valueless and apparently had been sent as a foil for the important news that King Ferdinand had left his capital.

From Sofia there comes a message intimating that Bulgaria has decided to cast her lot with the Turko-German alliance. It states that prominent Bulgarians have appealed for a convocation of Parliament to "prevent action contrary to the country's centuries-old traditions."

Bulgarian hatred of the Turk is traditional, and therefore observers of the Balkan situation believe that the Sofia dispatch was a carefully-worded message sent to show that Bulgaria would align herself with the Turks.

Hottest Sept. 14 in Boston for Twelve Years

With the mercury in the thermometer leaping and bounding up five degrees at a time, today was the second hottest day this year, and the hottest September 14 in twelve years. The temperature is due fair to go even higher and eclipse the high mark of the season, when the glass registered 91.4 last Friday.

The official temperature on the top of the Federal Building at noon registered 90, with the humidity around normal, making the day hot, but bearable.

The intense heat caused much suffering in Cambridge and the authorities closed the schools.

Boy Amazed to See Sister on Screen

Four-year-old Harry Flynn, son of Commissioner of State Aids and Pensions Richard R. Flynn, created a sensation at the Boston Theatre last evening when he saw his 11-year-old sister on the screen in "He Couldn't Make His Brain Behave." The house was quiet while the picture showed the little girl being rescued from the water at Winthrop Beach. "Oh, Ella May," piped out the sharp voice of little Harry, and the huge audience burst into applause and laughter.

Louis Bitzer Now Freed on Parole

Louis Bitzer, the Greenfield jeweler who shot and killed his girl clerk and his five-year-old boy and wounded his wife and daughter in 1902, and who was sent to State prison for life, was released today on parole. His sentence was commuted to eighteen years by the executive council last week. He had served nearly sixteen years.

STRIKE PLOT INVESTIGATION BY BOSTON UNION TONIGHT

President John J. Barry of the Central Labor Union today called a special meeting of the executive board of the union for tonight to investigate the charges that Matthew Cummings, Dennis D. Driscoll and others were involved in a plot to bring about a strike of longshoremen in Boston and elsewhere for the purpose of preventing the shipment of war munitions to the allies.

Driscoll, it is charged, introduced Cummings to William F. Dempsey, local head of the longshoremen. But it is claimed that he opposed rather than furthered the alleged plot.

Driscoll is a former president of the Central Labor Union, and his connection with the strike plot will be especially considered.

The Department of Justice, through special agents, is meanwhile investigating the alleged plot thoroughly. President Wilson is determined to stamp out unneutral activity, and if evidence is found to warrant it prosecutions are expected to be made.

Former Governor Foss put his finger in the pie today by sending a letter to Secretary of State Lansing attacking labor leaders who have handled strikes at his plants.

FOSS WANTS PROBE.

In his letter to Secretary of State Lansing, former Governor Foss declares that the strikes at the machine shops, in which he is interested, have been the result of an unholy alliance between labor men and foreign government agents. He insists that Mr. Lansing should have suspicious circumstances connected with the strike in the Foss plants investigated.

From those named by the New York World as having tried to inaugurate a longshore strike that would tie up the shipment of supplies and munitions to the allies, today came more emphatic denials of the charges.

Matthew Cummings, the former head of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, an ardent anti-Britain, characterized the "plot charges" in which he was said to have acted as intermediary between German factors and longshore union leaders as all lies.

He declared that he was the victim

Unable to get work, Michael McGrath, forty-five, married, of Dorchester, early today attempted suicide by gas poisoning at the home of a friend, William Malone, at No. 22 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester. For three weeks, according to the police, McGrath has been despondent. He was found unconscious in bed. The doors and windows were shut and the gas was turned on. He is at the City Hospital.

CUMMINGS ACCUSES LABOR MEN

Boston Man Named in "Expose" Says Leaders Are Trying to Ruin Him.

of a plot himself, a plot hatched by hirelings of the British government and carried out by the bankers in this country, who are openly allied with the British interests. The object of all this plot, Matthew Cummings thinks, is to forestall any attempt this Winter by labor men to better their conditions and thereby interfere with the stream of munitions leaving this country.

DRISCOLL MAKES DENIAL.

Dennis D. Driscoll, the Boston labor leader, who was named in the New York World charges as having arranged the meeting between Matthew Cummings and William B. Dempsey of the Longshoremen's International Union, and who was named by former-Governor Foss in his letter to Grafton Cushing as allied with the liquor and German interests in calling the strike at the Foss plants, also denied the charges that he had arranged the Cummings-Dempsey interview.

The New York World charged that Boston was the centre of active anti-allies interests, and that it was in Boston that a longshore strike was planned by German and Austrian agents with promises of financial backing to support the strike amounting to millions of dollars.

Ex-Governor Foss also charges that Boston is a plot centre and asks conditions at his plant be investigated in view of his belief that German and Austrian interests are behind the labor troubles.

His letter to Secretary of State Lansing is as follows:

The Honorable Robert Lansing,
Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir—In an article in the Boston Post of August 21, 1915, one F. J. Conlon, representing himself to be a labor union official, is reported as having expressed a purpose to demoralize the plant of the Becker Milling Machine Company, of which I am the head.

GERMAN LETTERS.

This plant is engaged in manufacturing machinery used in the production of articles useful for national defence and in war. There have come into my hands photographic reproductions of original letters and notices emanating from agents of the imperial German government which you will observe are to substantially the same effect as the declaration of Conlon quoted above.

I forward these documents for your information in the hope that you may establish what connection, if any, exists between persons pretending to represent organized labor and the agents of foreign governments.

Respectfully yours,
EUGENE N. FOSS.

DRISCOLL'S STATEMENT.

Professor Edmund von Mach, who was named as furnishing Matthew Cummings with credentials in the alleged plot, is still at his Summer home in West Brookville, Me. Over the telephone he too denied any implication in any longshore strike. He said he had met Matthew Cummings at meetings where both spoke, but could not remember giving him letters or credentials of any sort.

Dennis D. Driscoll's answer to the charges in which his name appeared, said:

The statement in the World that I knew something about this matter but didn't want to say anything is absolutely false. I did not arrange a meeting between Cummings and O'Connor. I introduced Cummings to Dempsey when we met by accident in the Quincy House. Soon afterward at dinner I told Dempsey I was suspicious from run-in I had heard, and that Dempsey had better stand by his agreement with the employers by his letter.

Francis J. Donahue, chairman of the Industrial Accident Board, after a conference with his colleague, John P. Feeney, issued the following statement:

WOULD NOT KNOW DEMPSEY.

The reference to me in Dempsey's letter is very vague; so much so, in fact, that it leaves little opportunity for a reply. I do not know Dempsey.

I know Matthew Cummings by sight but, to my recollection, never spoke to him more than once or twice in my life.

This whole story, so far as it concerns me, is absurd.

Matthew Cummings, in his denial of the charge that he was the "go-between" for German interests and labor leaders, insists that he is the victim of a "plot."

Matthew Cumming's statement, issued by his counsel, O'Connell Brothers, is as follows:

We have been instructed by our client, Matthew Cummings, to begin action at the earliest date possible against the New York World for its publication of the sensational charges which it has seen fit to print, and to commence action, also, if reasonable legal ground for the same can be established, against Messrs. T. V. O'Connor of Buffalo, N. Y., and William F. Dempsey of Boston, the two officers of the Longshoremen's Union.

WELCOMES PROBE.

Mr. Cummings authorized us to say in his behalf that he welcomes any prosecution which the Federal government, through the Former Governor Foss Submits Charges to the State Department.

Department of Justice, or any other agency may deem advisable.

That he is the victim of the scheming of unscrupulous men, seeking to capitalize his prominence as a leader in Irish affairs, and as a means to advance their own ends, is the firm belief of our client.

Dempsey and O'Connor are regarded by our client as two desperate men who plotted to ruin him as a means of winning from the state labor boards commissions they were unable to bring about by fair and honorable means.

Canada May Make Heavy Ordnance

Says Pope Paves Way for Peace Plan

ROME, Sept. 14.—In discussing the recent visit of Cardinal Gibbons to President Wilson, the newspaper Roma, considered to be inspired by the Vatican, says there is no idea at present of offering mediation to the belligerents, but that the Pope's object is to influence public opinion in favor of peace so that mediation will have every chance of success when the circumstances seem favorable.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning — if you have given up hope of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Ensorol. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

have been found in the homes of many.

The American military authorities have posted manifestos throughout this district warning Mexicans that any of those discovered or connected with the invading parties will be severely dealt with.

Soldiers guarding the international bridge between Brownsville and Matamoras were given orders today not to permit a single Mexican to enter American territory. They were instructed to arrest every man who attempted to cross the river by boat or on horseback.

Reports received last night by Colonel L. R. Bullard that more than seventy-five armed Mexicans dressed in khaki had crossed the river on rafts in American territory were confirmed today by American ranchers. They stated that the Mexicans had quickly disappeared in the mesquite after crossing ten miles southeast of Brownsville.

General Funston has sent the following report of Major Anderson, at Harlingen, on the fighting in which an American soldier was killed:

"Sergeant Walsh, in command of detachment of ten men Troop A, Twelfth Cavalry, stationed at outpost at Turner's ranch, about five miles east of Santa Maria, fired on by bandits, estimated twenty or thirty, posted at five or more places covered by shelter surrounding camp at daybreak this morning. Fire returned. Fight lasted half hour.

"Several hundred shots fired. Sergeant James J. Walsh shot in leg, not serious. Trumpeter Harold T. Forney, shot through abdomen, dangerously wounded. Private Anthony Kraft shot through head, lived half hour, dead.

"Another of our detachments closed in from military road. Bandits withdrew into brush. Our men clashed in from Santa Maria, Harlingen, San Benito and Los Idios and have been at work all day endeavoring to locate the bandits, believed to be principally people living in this vicinity.

"Have furnished support for civil officers who have been searching all houses on river, seizing arms and suspicious characters. Many arms being seized. Five Mexicans found by our men near scene of fighting held and turned over to civil officers. Forney and Walsh in hospital here."

The sergeant and Trumpeter Kearsarge and Kentucky will be sent to Vera Cruz to replace the Louisiana and New Hampshire, which will proceed north for the war game off Hampton Roads, Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today.

The Kearsarge and Kentucky will sail from Philadelphia the latter part of this week.

A dispatch from Little Rock, Ark., says:

"Chris Ledwidge, local capitalist, received a message that his brother, his brother, Edward Ledwidge of El Paso, Tex., who is held captive by Mexican bandits in Chihuahua, is to be shot at noon today.

"Edward Ledwidge's employers in El Paso sent a special train bearing the $10,000 in gold demanded as a ransom, but it is said that the train was held up by orders of General Francisco Villa, who declared that to pay ransom would only encourage brigandage, and that it were better that Ledwidge should be killed than that every American who traversed that region should be held up.

"Villa said he would attempt the rescue himself."

Dr. Arthur Gordon Webster of Worcester, one of the three New Englanders appointed to the new Naval Advisory Board, announces that he will accept the appointment. He is a New Englander by birth, being born in Newton, Mass.

He attended the public schools of Newton and entered Harvard in the class of 1885, graduating from there at the head of his class. The year following his graduation from Harvard he received an appointment to a travelling fellowship to the University of Berlin.

He was awarded the degree of philosophy by the University of Berlin in 1890. He also studied at the University of Paris and the University of Stockholm. Upon his return to the United States, he was offered the assistant professorship of physics at Clark University, Worcester, and in 1900 was made professor, the position he has held since that time.

Dr. Webster is considered to be the foremost authority on sound in this country and is one of the twenty-two representatives chosen from eleven scientific bodies to constitute the new Naval Advisory Board. He is a member of the American Physicists Society and the American Mathematical Society. He resides at No. 66 West street, Worcester.

"I am not prepared to make a statement regarding conscription."

John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, has called a meeting of the heads of the Irish party to discuss the course of the Nationalist members of Parliament during the present session.

The leader of the Labor party will confer tomorrow for the same purpose. It is reported that influential members of the Laborites are bitter against conscription.

The question of finance will likely come up the middle of next week when the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna, will explain the urgent needs of the treasury.

The English financial condition is such that the government is confronted with a daily deficit of $16,000,000 as a result of the growing cost of carrying on the war.

In connection with the financial aspect all eyes are now turned toward the United States, where the Anglo-French commissioners are trying to arrange a huge war loan, the amount of which may be $1,000,000,000.

There is a growing demand for pensions to support dependent families, whose bread winners are at the front. Minister Lloyd George is in a position to report progress on the acceleration of the output of war supplies, but he is not yet wholly satisfied with the amount of production. As the situation stands now men are offering their services faster than they can be equipped.

Mrs. Levina Clapp of Marblehead has brought suit for divorce against Charles F. Clapp of Revere in the Suffolk County Court. She alleges misconduct on the part of Clapp at Revere.

The petition of Mr. Clapp, a grocer in Revere, has been attached by Mrs. Clapp for $5,000, and she asks the court to award her that amount for furnish her suitable support and maintenance. Mrs. Clapp seeks the right to resume her maiden name of Levina L. Roundey.

where today's fire was discovered. This is a structure which is being built at Corona road and Dahlgren street. It was left a smoking shell by the flames.

The Mayor inspected it so thoroughly that Captain Reardon became alarmed lest he step on weakened timbers and go through to the cellar. Finally the captain said:

"Do easy there, Mr. Mayor. You'll fall through to the cellar if you are not careful."

"Don't you worry. I'm sure-footed," said the Mayor.

The Mayor returned to the station, where he promised Captain Reardon all the backing the Mayor could give him in probing for a firebug.

"You will have all the support of my office in your efforts to catch the culprit that is setting those Dorchester fires," said the Mayor as he started for City Hall.

Captain Reardon has had his plain-clothes men scouting at night in search of a firebug. He will put on more men at this night-trailing.

Two months ago a fire on Rosetta street made the police suspicious. Another on Ridgewood street a few nights later increased suspicions.

SUSPICIUS FIRES.

The Sunday before Labor Day a back piazza fire was discovered just in time at the six-apartment house, Nos. 6-8 Westville road, owned by T. M. Stevens. This house was blistered in today's fire.

Last Sunday a suspicious fire was found in time on Tonawanda street.

The string of these fires has the Dorchester firemen and police on edge. When Mayor Curley arrived in the district he found Captain Reardon pushing investigation anew with all the resources at his command.

Today's fire brought out hundreds of people, in addition to those actually driven out by flames or smoke.

The nerve-shattered state of the neighborhood is best illustrated by a twelve-year-old girl who saved the kitchen broom, thinking she had the baby in her arms.

Miss Carrie Gibson of No. 61 Corona street was so overcome by smoke that her sisters, Bertha and Louise, had to help her out.

Children were saved by their parents from the smoke which curled through many bedrooms.

CHIEF'S HAND CUT.

District Chief William H. Mulligan was lacerated on the right hand by nail points he encountered in the new house.

District Chief Maurice Heffernan fell as he was helping some of his men drag in a hose. The men right behind fell on him. The chief's nose was badly bruised on the floor. He was trampled on the body so severely that internal pains set in. He was ordered to undergo an X-ray examination today to determine whether internal injuries are caused.

Captain Harry Hibbard of Engine 46 stepped on a nail, which penetrated his foot.

District Chief Walter McLain, just transferred from Hyde Park, had several narrow escapes from falling timbers, and finally one ember did set his neck afire.

Lieutenant John Finnen of the fire alarm branch of the department lives near by. Though not subject to fire call, he came out and gave much aid to his fellow-firemen.

The heat from the burning new house was so intense that when the firemen went to couple hose to a hydrant on the opposite side of Corona street they had to cover their faces with handkerchiefs.

Elmer W. Houghton of No. 1 Dahlgren street on his way to work. Seeing flames in the new house Houghton ran to a box at Westville street and Dakota road, pulled in an alarm, ran back and pounded on doors or rang bells of houses, adjoining the burning one.

The double house, No. 59-61 Corona street, next to the burning new house, was damaged on one side and on the roof. The double houses, Nos. 52-54 and 56-58 Corona street, across the way from the fire, were blistered on the front. Four dwellings in the rear suffered more or less.

The house No. 53-61 Corona street is occupied by W. E. Manning and family and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gibson, their two children and two of Mr. Gibson's sisters. The children are Mildred, Dean and Harold, two. The sisters are Bertha and Carrie Gibson.

Awakened by the smoke, Mr. Gibson aroused his wife and other members of the household. Mrs. Gibson seized her daughter Mildred and fled to the street, with Mr. Gibson closely following with their son, Harold.

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending over or a dull, all-day backache; each is cause enough to suspect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. Overwork, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise, and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths from kidney diseases than in 1890, is the story told by the 1910 census.

If annoyed with a bad back, nervous troubles and irregular kidney or bladder action, modify the bad habits, and use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

A Boston Case:

Frank Rehfeld, barber, 83 Sudbury St., says: "I was troubled for quite awhile by my kidneys and back. There was a dull pain over each kidney, which hurt me terribly and made me nervous. The kidney secretions were often irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had any trouble since."

Reasons for Two Hods in Crawford Ranges

First Reason:—An Ash Hod is better than an Ash Pan; it catches all the ashes, it is easy to remove, it doesn't spill and the ashes can't bank up against the grates and warp them.

Second Reason:—The Coal Hod is out of the way and can't be used as a catch-all for garbage and all kinds of rubbish.

Then there is the Single Damper Control—worth the price of the range—and no other range has it. It's a marvel.

And a Wonderful Oven—with its perfectly even heat—which means perfect baking.

Crawford means cooking comfort.

Gas Ovens if desired; end [single] elevated [double].

Gets 50c He Lent Woolworth in 1875

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Frank W. Woolworth, owner of millions, is worth at least 50 cents less than he was when he arrived in this city and met "Huckleberry Charlie" Sherman.

Forty years ago, when the big syndicate man and "Huckleberry Charlie" played as boys near Great E nd, the future millionaire needed 50 cents to go to a road circus, Charlie furnished the money.

As Mr. Woolworth alighted from his automobile in front of the Woodruff House here, Charlie was on hand to press his claim. Mr. Woolworth paid the debt.

Malden Pastor Wins Fame for Shingling Job

There are all kinds of parsons, but the Rev. W. H. Burbank, rector of St. Luke's Church, Linden square, Malden, has made a reputation as the "shingling pastor." He donned a pair of old trousers and a jumper and led seven members of his church in shingling their house of worship.

REPORT TEUTON LOSS 465,000 IN TWO MONTHS

By International News Service.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 14.—Austro-German losses in the fighting of the last two months were officially estimated at 465,000 men here today.

Prisoners taken by the Russians state that entire regiments were destroyed in the attacks upon the positions of the Czar's troops. More than 30,000 prisoners are in the hands of the Russians as a result of the operations of the last three weeks. From these it has been learned that the Germans are finding it difficult to shift troops as readily as they did in the opening of the campaign in Poland.

Though the War Office admits that the Germans have cut the railway between Dvinsk and Vilna, the Petrograd military experts assert that present conditions augur well for the success of the Russians.

"The German rush has weakened greatly," says the Russ Gazette's expert. "The enemy is losing his strength. We are gaining in power.

"The heavy rains that are now falling will prove an enormous handicap for the enemy. The Russian troops on their retreat through the swamps destroyed all roads. Before the Germans can get through they must rebuild these. Then they will find our troops waiting for them at the edges. They will be unable to use the artillery which has played so great a part in their victories. It will be cold steel that wins them. In the use of this none is superior to the Russian soldier.

The outstanding feature of the present campaign, according to all the experts, is the fact that at no time have the Germans been able to administer a decisive defeat to the Russians. The abandonment of the Vistula, Niemen and Bug river fortresses kept the great mass of Russian troops free for the field conflicts.

ROME, Sept. 14.—Cardinal Gaspari, papal secretary of state, has sent $200 to the Civitas Hospital, with a letter saying the Pope regrets the present condition of the Vatican's finances and cannot send more.

Bryan Surely Coming to Speak in Braves Park

Former Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan is to speak at the Braves' ball park, Allston, Sunday afternoon, on the subject of "War and Its Lessons."

Moreover, Mr. Bryan is to be heard here at popular prices.

Mr. Bryan appears as the star attraction in the series of popular price Sunday afternoon entertainments now being held by the Braves' management.

Assurances that Bryan would speak here were today received by the management in a telegram from Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. Bryan leaves Lincoln today for Washington, D. C., where he is to confer with peace leaders. He will start for Boston Saturday.

Mr. Bryan promises to speak for at least one hour. He will introduce himself and occupy a specially constructed stand. This, it might be added, will be erected directly over home plate.

GERMANY'S CASE IN HANDS OF BERNSTORFF

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Hopes for a complete adjustment of all existing differences with Germany and Austria were expressed in official circles today. Direct diplomacy has been substituted for long-drawn-out negotiations and more practical results are expected.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, clothed with broad powers from his home government, will hold almost daily conferences with Secretary Lansing. He will endeavor to reconcile the views of Berlin with the views of Washington. He himself is very hopeful of the outcome.

Administration officials, while not sharing his extreme optimism, declare that the skies are clearing.

The German Ambassador frankly admits that the involved language of the Arabic note is responsible for the present situation. He had believed a complete settlement of the entire submarine controversy certain. And he has told Secretary Lansing that hereafter he personally will interpret Berlin's wishes.

In the meanwhile Ambassador Dumba is reported to be packing up preparatory to leaving the country. He wants to go home "on leave" so as to aid his government in avoiding the serious problem of picking a successor during the present crisis who would satisfy the United States.

By being absent on leave and to report to his home government he also would make it easier for the United States to continue Ambassador Penfield in Vienna, while doing business with an Austrian charge here in Washington.

Persons close to the Austrian embassy here believe that the orders for his recall already have been started Washingtonward, although the State Department still is without official word from Vienna.

It is understood that the problems awaiting amicable adjustment are as follows:

1—The exact manner in which Germany is to give assurances that she officially has accepted the American demands that international law shall govern her future submarine operations.

2—Whether the United States shall receive a complete copy of the German instructions to submarine commanders with the date of their issuance, and whether they also have a notification of the penalties for their violation.

In this connection the United States takes the position that they cannot rely exclusively upon the opinion of the German commander, but must be assured that the orders are of such a character that a commander cannot wantonly sink a merchant vessel and then plead justification and escape punishment.

3—Whether the two nations can agree on an arbitration plan that will not touch principles of national honor, but will be available for the matters to be adjusted in this case.

The American position at present is that generally it is pledged to arbitration, but not in cases where the contravention of the principles insisted upon by the President is possible.

4—Whether Berlin will be willing to give such assurances concerning the Arabic that this government can take up the Lusitania and other issues.

BERLIN EXPECTS EARLY FALL OF RIGA

By International News Service.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Sept. 14.—Official announcement of the capture of Riga by German troops is expected shortly. A report that the Russian seaport had been taken was in circulation here today, but this was believed to be premature.

It is apparent, however, that the Russians will not be able to bar the route to Riga much longer. German artillery has arrived on the defending Slavs from the east bank of the river, thus permitting the construction of pontoon bridges to replace those which the Russians destroyed on their retreat from the west bank.

The city of Dvinsk is also expected to fall into possession of the Germans very soon. The official reports show that three separate forces are advancing upon Dvinsk, whence the Germans may open their campaign against Petrograd, 320 miles away. It is considered probable, however, that if a campaign for the capture of Petrograd is undertaken it will not be made until next year.

Germans Shifting Troops in West

BERLIN, Sept. 14.—The War Office hears that a large part of the German troops which have been operating against the Russians is being transferred to the Anglo-French front. They are equipped with heavy artillery and an enormous supply of ammunition.

Confirm French Naval Success

PARIS, Sept. 14.—French Ministry of Marine today confirmed the announcement made in Rome yesterday that a French submarine had torpedoed and seriously damaged an Austrian torpedo boat in the Adriatic.

Allies on Gallipoli Get Reinforcements

By International News Service.

ATHENS, Sept. 14.—Heavy reinforcements for the British and French troops are being landed on Gallipoli peninsula. The disembarkation of the new expedition to the Dardanelles was preceded by a terrific bombardment directed by the allies' warships upon the Turkish batteries on both the Asiatic and European sides.

Many of the batteries were completely silenced, and others have been able to reply only at intervals.

Von der Goltz Quits Post in Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 14.—The German military attache here, Major Baron von der Goltz, is leaving his post. He will be replaced by General von Lossow, who formerly was attached to the legation. It is stated Baron von der Goltz is leaving voluntarily.

FRENCH FLIERS DROP SHELLS ON BENSDORF

PARIS, Sept. 14.—French aviators on the southern end of the battle front are keeping up their offensive against the Germans.

The important German railway point of Bensdorf has been bombarded.

The German cantonments at Chatel in the Argonne forest have also been shelled from the air.

These latest attacks by French airmen were officially announced today by the French War Office.

Bensdorf lies twenty-eight miles southeast of Metz in Lorraine. It is upon the railway line connecting Metz with Strassburg and is also on the railway that reaches from Saarbruecken to the French frontier.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELPS

Nothing excites more criticism than a woman with her face all dashed with face powder in her desire to hide a faulty or an aging skin. Instead of using powder, which clogs and enlarges the pores, it is far better to use a good face lotion that will improve and permanently benefit the skin. By dissolving four ounces of spurmax in a half pint of hot water you can make an inexpensive lotion that will do wonders as a skin whitener and complexion beautifier. It removes all freckles, sallowness and pimples, and gives the skin a smooth, velvety look, while it does not rub off easily the powder, nor does it show on the skin.

By washing the hair with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterward rinsing thoroughly with clear water, one finds that it dries quickly and evenly, is unusually bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. This simple, inexpensive shampoo cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all dandruff and dirt, and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. All scalp irritation will disappear, and the hair will be brighter and glossier than ever before. Advertisement.

HOW TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

A SIMPLE, SAFE AND RELIABLE WAY.

People who are overburdened with superfluous fat know only too well the discomfort and ridicule that over-stout people have to bear.

If you are carrying around five or ten pounds of unhealthy fat you are unnecessarily weakening your vital organs and are carrying a burden which destroys the beauty of your figure.

There is no need of anyone suffering from superfluous fat. If you want to reduce your weight in a simple, safe and reliable way, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise, spend as much time as you can in the open air, breathe deeply and get from any good druggist a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week so as to know just how fast you are losing weight and don't leave off the treatment or even skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is designed to consume the excessive fatty tissue by increasing the oxygen carrying power of the blood. Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, footsteps become lighter, your work seems easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of your whole being.

Every person who suffers from superfluous fat should give this treatment a trial, there is nothing better.

EMILY BURGER STILL INQUIRES FOR DR. MOHR

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 14.—"Have they taken the bullets from the doctor yet?" When are you going to tell me how he is getting along?"

These were two of the first questions asked by Miss Emily G. Burger, after reviving from the ether following the extraction of one of the bullets, which she received while riding in the automobile of Dr. C. Fred Mohr, who was slain while on his way to his Newport villa on August 31.

Ever since the night of the shooting, which so nearly cost her life, Miss Burger's first and only thought has been for the doctor's welfare. She seemed to forget her own danger and pain and to be anxious for Dr. Mohr, and she gave another demonstration of her devotion at the operation which the surgeons had postponed for thirteen days.

Miss Burger was on the operating table thirty minutes. She was eager to have the bullets extracted. She told the doctors and nurses that she wanted it over with so she could recover quickly and hurry to the bedside of Dr. Mohr.

From day to day she pleaded with the attending physicians to remove the bullet, which gave her pain at times, but they wished to have her gather all the strength possible following the excitement and shock of the tragedy. Instead of dreading the ordeal Miss Burger welcomed it. Dr. Edgar R. Smith of No. 75 Waterman street, one of the leading surgeons in the State, performed the operation, which was a very delicate one, the bullet being lodged between the points of both jaws.

Dr. Smith said today:

The bullet which I extracted was the one that entered back of Miss Burger's right ear. The bullet which entered her right shoulder passed through the body without striking any vital point. Miss Burger stood the operation very well. There is no danger of complications. She ought to be well enough to leave the hospital within ten days.

Miss Burger is still ignorant of the death of Dr. Mohr. She thinks he is in another ward. She asked yesterday if the bullets had been removed from him and was anxious to learn when they were going to tell her about his condition.

When I told her I had taken out the bullet after she revived, she said, 'I don't believe it, I think it is still there.'

The bullet appeared to be of a 38-calibre. It was somewhat flattened by contact with the jaw bone. The wound will not leave any facial scar. Neither wound showed any sign of burning. Therefore the weapon from which the shots were fired could not have been held very close to Miss Burger. In my opinion the shooting may have been done from a distance of five or six feet and not any closer.

FINAL JEWISH APPEAL MADE TO HARVARD

Rabbi Harry Levi was today in touch with President Lowell in a final effort to induce the head of Harvard to modify his refusal to make allowance for Jewish boys who wish to take the Harvard entrance examinations.

Some of the examinations come on Saturday, September 18, the Jewish Day of Atonement, and those of the Jewish faith cannot take the examinations on that day without sacrilege.

President Lowell has repeatedly refused to consider making any change to accommodate the Jewish aspirants for entrance to Harvard. Nevertheless, influential Jews of Boston are backing Rabbi Levi in his efforts.

"It has been suggested," said Rabbi Levi, "that boys of our faith might dictate their examination papers to a stenographer. That is ridiculous. To do that would in no wise preserve the sanctity of the day.

"We still hope for some plan of adjustment."

Harvard has had no intimation that Jewish boys will ask an entrance examinations next Saturday, according to F. W. Hunnewell, secretary to President Lowell. He said:

"What is a little puzzling to us here at Harvard is that no effort was made to adjust dates in the Spring, when the time for entrance examinations was published in the catalog. No word of remonstrance was heard, nor was there any requests from Jewish boys for examinations in June, which would have been perfectly satisfactory.

"I have not personally handled President Lowell's mail dealing with this matter and am not, therefore, in a position to state definitely his position, but hardly believe anything can be done to change the date now, upon so short a notice. Harvard is a large institution with complicated governmental machinery, and to change the day set for examinations would mean a difficult readjustment.

"While there are undoubtedly more Jewish students than there were ten years ago, the same can be said of many foreign nationalities. We are made up of all creeds and forms of belief and can with difficulty consider the sacred days of various religions."

The Jews of Boston have decided that any form of demonstration such as a public mass meeting to consider the situation would be unwise and futile.

"We have stated our position frankly, and we shall continue to impress upon the Christian public how serious this difficulty is with all Orthodox Jews," was the statement of W. H. Borofsky today.

"I have talked with President Lowell, who apparently fails to realize what this means to the Jewish people," said Mr. Borofsky. "To take an examination on the day of atonement is to us much as it would be for Christians to make Christmas a work day.

MADAM DUMBA REGRETS GOING AWAY FROM U. S.

Mme. Dumba, who tells the AMERICAN she is dumfounded at the prospect of leaving so many warm friends on this side of the Atlantic. Specially posed at Lenox yesterday.

By RUTH M. BYERS.

LENOX, Sept. 14.—"I never was so astounded at anything in my life. Even yet it hardly seems real—that my husband and I have been asked to leave this country, where we have made so many warm friends. But I guess it is only another one of the hardships this dreadful war is demanding of the world."

So Madame Dumba, wife of Dr. Constantin Dumba, the Ambassador from Austria-Hungary, decided the fate that had banished her husband from Washington and made necessary the severing of many pleasant friendships she had made in America.

Yes say that my friends will miss me here. Ah, I hope so. Certain it is that I shall miss them."

Madame Dumba was standing as we talked on the steps of her villa, the "Poplars," high among the Berkshire Hills. Suddenly she swept her arm wide with a gesture that took in all the lovely surroundings.

"I have grown to love these hills. They will always mean beautiful America to me, and we hope, above all else, that our friends and our politics will be kept apart in future memories of this Summer spent under most trying conditions."

Madame Dumba smiled a little wistfully and abruptly changed the subject.

It was easy to understand the sense of loss which the exclusive Summer colony here is feeling over the sudden departure of Mme. Dumba and the Ambassador, for Mme. Dumba is so charming, so unaffected and, above all, so beautiful. She has a wealth of wonderful bronzed hair tinged with flaming red gold and her eyes are gray-green. She is tall and impresses one at once as being a great lover of all kinds of outdoor sports.

She wore a simple white shirt waist, a tan short skirt and a becoming white panama.

As we talked together in the garden I saw how very real Mme. Dumba's distress was at the thought of leaving America.

"It seems like a terrible dream, somehow," she declared. "But when I see the servants packing I know it is all too real and that we must go."

Just then Dr. Dumba joined us. He heard his wife's last words and the smile on his face vanished.

The Austrian Ambassador is an old young man. He looks with his slightly stooped shoulders and his tanned, heavily-lined face, as though he were fully sixty-five. But the energy and vigor with which he moves seems to give the lie to his age. He looks like a man who has spent many hours on the golf links. Certainly he has met approaching age with the spirit of a boy.

"I have no statement to make yet," Dr. Dumba said. "But I will make an official announcement in a few days. I am simply waiting for word from my government.

"But for my own sake I want to tell Americans the truth about matters that have been very unpleasant for me. Just what my future plans will be are at present very problematical."

"You will be leaving soon?" I ventured. The Ambassador shook his head and I thought I detected some chagrin in the reluctance after his answer.

"I cannot tell, why, it is hard to go," he replied briefly.

MRS. WARDWELL SAYS JUDGE KISSED HER

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 14.—A dramatic development occurred in connection with the investigation of the murder of Lahor Day of Judge Willis S. Knowles of Scituate, when his housekeeper, Mrs. Cora E. Wardwell, subjected to a third degree examination by the police of this city, Cranston, Scituate and Johnston, confessed her love for Judge Knowles.

The examination of Mrs. Wardwell was staged with theatrical effect in the law office of the dead judge in the Grosvenor Building on Weybosset street.

Chief William F. O'Neil of the detective department of the Providence police, who conducted the interrogation, said at its close that Mrs. Wardwell had identified them completely that she knew nothing of the murder of Judge Knowles or the identity of the assassin who shot him from ambush.

Mrs. Wardwell made astonishing revelations. In the circle were the two brothers of the murdered man, Benjamin H. and Horace G. Knowles, both of New York, who hurried here to witness the search of Judge Knowles' office safe.

In the course of her nerve racking story of her long friendship with the judge and her dozen years of employment as his housekeeper, Mrs. Wardwell frequently broke down.

She wept at times and on several occasions while replying to questions, standing, reeled and nearly swooned.

"I would give my life to find the murderer of Will," said Mrs. Wardwell (she called Judge Knowles "Will" for short).

"Just the morning he was shot he kissed me fondly several times as he stepped through the door. He loved me too much for any other woman.

"I was in the kitchen preparing food for the cat when I heard the judge utter an oath. The windows were open at the time. I did not say that I heard the murderer's voice. The words uttered by Judge Knowles were quickly followed by three shots.

"I rushed down the driveway to the road and glancing down the hill saw Judge Knowles lying about 100 or more feet away. I knew it was him on the ground by the color of his suit.

"I ran madly back to the house and telephoned for the doctor."

SAY NEWPORT WOMAN IS NOT SPY SUSPECT

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 14.—The young Newport woman whom Nicholas K. Card, the fisherman accused of trespassing, claimed he took in his auxiliary catboat to Rose Island, the most important naval munition base in Narragansett Bay, was exhibited to three government witnesses in the Perry House at Newport, and declared by them not to be the woman seen in Card's fishing boat.

The young woman in question was requested to strut up and down before the witnesses and to assume sitting and standing postures. Her name was withheld, but it is known that she is the wife of a petty officer on one of the battleships of the Atlantic fleet, and thirty years of age.

Gunner Roderick O'Conner, who was doing sentry duty on Rose Island on August 26, the day of the alleged trespassing by Card and the mysterious woman, brought to be a German spy, was positive that the Newport woman did not resemble in style or complexion the fashionably dressed woman with jewels and the lace scarf around her head whom he saw seated in Card's fishing boat.

Henry Sonhers and John Bowman were just as emphatic as Gunner O'Connor in disputing Card's claim that the woman of mystery was his old friend the petty officer's wife, whom he claims was out for a sail before breakfast that morning in her flashy attire, "for a pleasure cruise among the islands."

Peary's Island to Be an Aero Station

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 14.—A report favoring Flag Island in Casco Bay, the use of which Admiral Robert E. Peary tendered to the Aero Club of America, for a Maine aeronautical station of the Aerial Coast Patrol, has been made by Henry A. Wise Wood, vice-president of that club, to Alan Hawley, its president.

From Flag Island a patrol of fifty miles in each direction along the coast would extend to Portsmouth and to the mouth of the Penobscot River.

R. I. State Farm Inmates Strike on 'Sour Bread'

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 14.—Three hundred and twenty inmates of the Rhode Island State Farm in Cranston have gone on strike because of conditions in the institution which displeased them.

The 348 men and eighty women objected to the "sour bread," and to the number of hours which the women have been forced to work.

The inmates demand fifty-four-hour week for women. They claim the State law applies to women in institutions as well as to others.

The strike has been conducted along labor union lines and the inmates claim they will be victorious. After months of grumbling, the word was secretly passed for every man and woman in the institution to quit work at a given hour, and they did. They sent a grievance committee to confer with Dr. Fred D. Jewett, the superintendent.

With assurances that demands would be properly considered, the strikers resumed work. They were demonstrative, but there was no violence. Labor leaders are interested in the novel contention raised by the State Farm inmates.

Colored Woman's Skin Frozen White

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Dr. J. W. King of Bradford, Pa., told a number of his colleagues at a meeting how he turned a negress' skin white as the result of an accident. He treated a colored woman for lumbago by freezing one leg from the hip down to the ankle with ether.

"After a week or so," said Dr. King, "she returned to my office and said:

"'Doctor, the lumbago is gone, but I think I shall have to prosecute you for mistreatment. You've done more than you said you would.'

"The leg I had treated was perfectly white and is so to this day."

At Less Cost—

There's more nutritive value that the system will absorb in Grape-Nuts than in either meat or bread.

A remarkable fact.

Weight for weight, a package of Grape-Nuts supplies one-third more nourishment than a roast of beef and at about half the cost. A roast of beef is about twenty per cent waste and there is a shrinkage in cooking. Grape-Nuts comes ready cooked—and not a crumb need be wasted.

Think it over!

Then there's bread—white bread lacks certain elements essential to building brain and body. Why? Because in milling white flour, four-fifths of the precious mineral content (all important for health and life) is thrown out with the brancoat of wheat, to make the flour look white and pretty.

Grape-Nuts

not only supplies all the brain- and bone-building, nerve and muscle-making phosphates of the wheat, but all the rich nutriment of malted barley.

Besides, Grape-Nuts is easily digested—generally in about an hour—white bread and beef require about 2½ hours.

Grape-Nuts comes in germ-proof, moisture-proof packages—ready to serve with cream or milk—a delicious ration, economical and highly nourishing.

THE SUPREME NEW NOTE IS RICHNESS OF COLOR AND MATERIAL. The emphasis is on velvet and velveteen, soft vicunas that look like silk chinchilla, the new suede cloths and wool velours. Particular attention has been paid to combining two materials like serge and taffeta, velvet and Georgette crepe, charmeuse and Georgette crepe. The new "Raye" silks are two materials combined in one fabric, giving a striped effect.

New Colors—Cathedral Shades —Stripes and Plaids

The navy blue costume and all black hat are eclipsed temporarily. The new colors are the deep purples, the plum shades (known as Quetsche), bronze, green, amethyst, Bordeaux and gray.

THE GENERAL SILHOUETTE IS THE SAME

Sleeves Are Changing

Do not fret about length and width of coat and skirt, but watch sleeves.

The most popular sleeve is very long and very tight—but things are happening to sleeves. Worth, Paquin and Lanvin are making them mutton-leg or bulging. Premet is making them full, Martial et Armand are puffing them. Beer has sent over bishop and dolman sleeves.

Skirts Remain Wide and Short

Sometimes the fullness is concealed, but it is there. Coats are all lengths—hip, three-quarters and seven-eighths. Wear what you like.

Panniers are back on evening dresses. The basque is prominent in new forms, redingotes are worn, the waist-line is normal—the silhouette is womanly and graceful.

The "High Spots" are High Collars and High Crowns

Collars are enormously exaggerated. Some coats and suits show collars eight inches high.

Directions for wearing—crush as much as you can, but be resigned to hiding the chin and the ears if need be.

Fur in September

Both suits and coats to wear now show fur collars, fur cuffs and fur bands. Dresses are trimmed with fur, so are hats and blouses. The favorite fur is beaver, next come skunk, krimmer and ermine.

The newest muffs are the old-fashioned barrel shape. The new fur coats have huge, high collars. Neck-pieces are worn snugly and fasten in back.

Masculine Privileges Women Do Without

What's Sauce for the Gander Isn't Always Sauce for the Goose

By DOROTHY DIX

A YOUNG and pretty woman is married to a man who goes out as soon as he has had his dinner, leaving her to spend the long, dreary evening alone. He diverts himself by going to theatres and dances and cafes with other women and men, and his wife wants to know if she has not the right to follow his example, and amuse herself also.

Of course she's got the right, but she hasn't got the liberty, and if she tries to follow in her husband's footsteps she will find that they lead her, by a short cut, to the doors of the divorce court.

What is sauce for the matrimonial goose isn't sauce for the matrimonial gander, and there are very few men who will stand for the line of conduct in their wives that they expect their wives to put up with from them.

A man, for instance, resents it as unwarranted nagging for his wife to ask him where he has been when he comes home at 3 G. M., but any woman who stayed out until that hour and refused to furnish a perfectly credible alibi would have a chance to tell her troubles to a policeman. She'd find the door locked and barred against her, so that she would never get in to make her explanations at all.

There are thousands of men who rarely spend an evening at their own fireside and who are perfectly happy and satisfied playing poker at their club, or drinking in a saloon, as long as they know that their wives are sitting up bored and forlorn at home, but let the woman either invite company in to relieve the monotony of her life or put on her hat and go forth in search of pleasure, and the mischief's to pay.

AN INJUSTICE

Of course, this is bitterly unjust. If a man won't stay at home and try to entertain his wife, he should not object to her finding someone else who will, but as Mr. Cleveland remarked concerning another matter, it's a condition and not a theory that confronts us, and the plain truth of the matter is that no married woman dares treat her husband as he treats her. There's one rule for the wife and another for the husband, unless marriage is to end in a grand explosion.

Suppose a woman criticises her husband's faults and weaknesses as freely as he criticises hers. Suppose, when Mr. Jones made a bad bargain in business or got gorgeously gold-bricked in a trade, that Mrs. Jones not only at the time told him how many kinds of an idiot he was, but embellished the incident with a few humorous touches and kept it to tell as her favorite dinner story. What would Mr. Jones do and say to Mrs. Jones for exhibiting him as a fool before company?

We pause for a reply. Yet all of us know dozens of men whose main funny story is some mistake that their wives have made, and which they never fail to tell, though the telling brings tears of mortification to their wives' eyes.

When things have gone wrong at the store, Mr. Smith bangs into the house and slams the door behind him, and appears with a face so glum that the children hush their prattle and the cat gets under the couch, and the wife scuttles to the kitchen to hurry up dinner. He storms and rages and grouches whenever he feels like it, and Mrs. Smith spends her time trying to soothe him down and cheer him up and win him out of his black humor.

But suppose Mrs. Smith tore up the earth every time anything went amiss in the kitchen; suppose when her husband came home from work he found her glooming around, and she only grumbled when he spoke to her—would husband offer himself as a lightning rod to carry off her bad temper? Not much! He'd put on his hat and go out and find some place with a serener atmosphere.

A MAN'S POSSIBILITIES

And—whisper it low, sisters—why shouldn't a man take as much trouble to keep himself young and slim and straight fronted and well-dressed and attractive to retain his wife's love, as a woman does to keep her husband interested in her? Every woman is deathly afraid of getting fat and triple-chinned lest she be less alluring to her husband at forty-five than she was at twenty. But do you ever hear of a middle-aged man, who is getting bald-headed and bay-windowed, worrying for fear that his wife will find him less attractive at fifty than he was at twenty-five?

It doesn't even occur to a man that his wife could quit loving him or get tired of him, but he expects her to keep hustling to keep him perpetually fascinated.

Suppose also a woman should treat her husband when he is sick as he treats her. When Mr. Brown comes home and finds Mrs. Brown sick, he is anxious for her to have a doctor and a nurse, and quarts of medicine if she needs it. Having duly provided these, he tiptoes over to the bed and says how sorry he is that his dear Maria is suffering, but he's no good in a sick room, and so he fares forth to the theatre or some other place of diversion where his mind will be taken off of the thought of how uncomfortable things are at home with illness in the house.

But when Mr. Brown is sick, if dear Maria isn't on the job every minute of the time, if she isn't holding his hand and looking scared, and shedding sympathetic tears, why, he considers himself the most ill-used man on earth, and should she go forth to spend the evening while he was sick in bed he would never forgive her for it.

All of which goes to show that there is one code of matrimonial procedure for the man and another for the woman, and that any wife who attempts to treat her husband the way he treats her had as well pack her trunk for Reno.

Anecdotes of the Famous

ONE of the most interesting recent visitors to America was Chang Cheng Shun, known as the "Rockefeller of China," who, beginning life as a poor boy, has now amassed, in his seventieth year, a fortune of something like $60,000,000.

As a clerk he worked in a small shop in Shanghai, and was paid $20 a month with a bonus. After a few years he was able to leave $2,000, with which he started business for himself as a rice, tea and coffee merchant. For a time he only sold his goods locally, but after a few years developed his business to such an extent that he sold in England, Germany and the United States, and did business to the extent of $10,000,000 a year. A keen, far-seeing business man, Chang Cheng Shun increased his activities and organized companies to develop waste lands for the cultivation of rice, tea, coffee, rubber and cocoa.

In Sumatra he cultivated 35,000 acres, in Batavia 14,000, in Penang 20,000 acres, and so on. He also opened and managed tin mines and became interested in so many ventures that he was ultimately employing 19,000 persons all the year round. Hard work, honesty, square dealing, and my ability to gain the confidence of my people is the secret of my success," he said recently, and no man in the Far East is more highly trusted and honored than this Chinese clerk who can now boast of his millions.

It has been said of the late Dean Stanley that "he had not a note of music in his head," and could scarcely distinguish one tune from another, a fact which caused his biographer, Rowland E. Prothero, to express surprise that "one so destitute of musical feeling" as Stanley should have been the first person to introduce Bach's Passion Music into the religious services of the church.

It is not easy, perhaps, for the average person to understand tone-deafness. But just as some people are color-blind, so there are others who are melody-deaf. Emperor Nicholas of Russia used to say that she would have given the world to be able to appreciate and love music, declaring that for her "music was noise, and nothing but noise."

Bonar Law tells a very good story in which Mr. Balfour figures. The Conservative leader was speaking at an election in Glasgow on Mr. Balfour's attitude on the Irish question. Mr. Law pointed out that the English, loved a compromise and instanced the course taken by Henry VIII. at the time of the Reformation. After he had finished speaking the following question was handed to him:

"The candidate has compared Mr. Balfour with Henry VIII. Are you aware that Mr. Balfour is a bachelor and that Henry VIII. was much the reverse?"

"To which Mr. Law replied: "Yes, but possibly Mr. Balfour might not be a bachelor if he could be sure of getting rid of his wives as easily as Henry VIII."

Lord Roberts considered that genius is only the capacity for taking pains. In 1856 he was offered an important post in Madras, but when it became known that he knew next to nothing of Hindustani the offer was withdrawn. Sending for his chief, he inquired whether if he passed an examination in the most difficult language the first post vacant of the same kind would be offered him. He was told that this would be so, but was warned that no Englishman could master Hindustani under at least a year. Young Roberts said nothing, but procuring the best teacher in his power, he set to work with a will, and in two months passed the examination. He afterward became a real Hindustani scholar and was familiar with many of the native dialects.

Hair Made Curly In Single Night

(Woman's Tribune.)

It has been discovered that the application of liquid silmerine artificially makes straight hair curly and wavy in a single night. Also it acts as a perfectly harmless hair beautifier and passing, dressing, and the peculiar method of drying in pretty waves, swirls and ornaments.

Straight, lanky hair and the cruel curling iron are no longer necessary. Any druggist of course can supply you with a few ounces of the liquid silmerine, enough to keep the hair curly for several weeks. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but very pleasant to use. Apply to the hair at bedtime with a clean tooth brush. In the morning your hair will be very beautiful and have a most natural curl and waviness. Advertisement.

One of the Bride Fleet! (Outward Bound)

"Three wise ones of Gotham,
Went to sea in a bowl;
And if the bowl had been stronger,
My song would have been longer!"

—Mother Goose.

GAY little bowls, with no food aboard, sometimes gaspingly shallow-rimmed, with a brisk gauzy white veil for a sail, they sail out each year in a thick little fleet, with always three a-shipping to the world's end and the land of ONLY-LOVE-MATTERS! Three wise ones; the little soft bride, and the man who adores her, and the sunny, willing small "hand" who's bo's'n tight and the mid-ship mite and the crew" of the Honey-Bowl! His wrists are sliken and weak, but he can swing a true paddle. His eyes are very blue like the hearts of harebells with the mountain-dew fresh on them—but he can see far and keen. His voice is silvery and thin—but it sings above the fearful wash of the riding waves, and just when the hearts of the other two are cold and sunk deep like stones in the sea, they warm and lighten at the heartening peal of it calling "all's well!"

Just don't sail out in your twirling bowl without the sailor-one of your companee! You'll need him something surprising. And make it a strong bowl with high sides.

"If the bowl had been stronger,
My song would have been longer!"

A Fictionless Fable

All About a Man Who Took Love Wholly for Granted

By ANN LISLE

THERE was once a man who had been in love with many women—and then he met THE GIRL. He knew her at once, and in the light of his knowledge he felt swept out of his own life-course into one that was new and strange.

"I am not worthy of you," he told the girl, "but don't give me up—perhaps I will in some day."

When he went about with other women he told her about it—with an air of righteousness. When she went out with other men he glowered and cross-examined her. And yet if she stayed home and seemed to expect things of him, he assured her that he was very busy, and that she must not let herself get bored and unhappy.

The girl came gradually to understand that he valued her the more because she attracted other men, and tortured himself a bit too much with the possibility that other men might attract her. But she was a girl of high ideals and wished to be loyal to love itself as well as to her lover.

Her loyalty made the man very sure of her. It also made him even more certain that she was indeed THE GIRL and would make a sweet, docile and understanding wife—but about marrying her there seemed no hurry.

The man thought placidly about how happy they would be some day. The girl thought less placidly about "some day." She began to wonder if the man were not a little more selfish than is the prerogative of his sex. She wondered if a man who failed to make his sweetheart happy even before they were formally betrothed and he had the pledge of his love on her finger, would-or-neglect his wife a little.

And then an old friend came marching boldly back into the girl's life. "Nathalie," said he, "you're living too quiet a life—you're altogether too young to become a recluse. Maybe you're working and maybe you're resting. But you'd better take a vacation from whatever you have been doing and come to a few dinners and theatres and teas with me. I'm an old friend and a good friend and I don't like to see a little girl like you looking all drab and gray and like the epilogue of her own life-story!"

And Nathalie, blissfully forgetting that she was THE GIRL and remembering only that she was a girl—went.

At first the little gayeties, once so dear to her and now so seldom in her life, were merely stimulating and a means to forgetting the aches and doubts in her heart. Then she began enjoying her good times—and feeling grateful to the man who gave them to her—and then came a timid fondness for the man who understood her instead of demanding that she understand him.

No longer did she wait for home calls that did not come. No longer did she anticipate engagements that were broken at the last minute. And the man who took her for granted wondered why she was always so placid and cheery now—days and then concluded that she was a sensible little thing who saw the futility of nagging at him because he could not see her more often and devote his life to giving her good times.

For three months one man devoted himself to making her happy, and the other looked forward to the time when he could let her make him happy. And then one night the good friend who was making Nathalie happy turned into a lover and she found his arms a haven from all the turmoil of life.

The next day she sent for the man who had taken her for granted and told him of her engagement.

"He loves me and he wants to devote his life to making me happy," said she.

"But I need you, I can't be happy without you. You love me," said he. And he swept her into his arms, where she found turbulent emotion and wild unrest.

And so they were married—and did not live happy ever after, although the girl tried her best!

Why We Quarrelled

The Husband's Side—No. 3—He Tells of the Frivolous Wife

By Virginia Trhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1915, by Star Company

IT is strange that people who agree in the essentials should quarrel about such a non-essential as society. Yet this is what my wife and I did.

Molly lived in a country town until our marriage. When she came to the city as my wife she was fascinated by the gayety and the excitement whirl that means less than nothing to me. She is charming, and my friends called on her and immediately "took her up," as the saying goes.

Molly informed me that it was our duty to return the calls made upon us. This, I agreed to, thinking that when this post honeymoon task was performed we might rest in peace in our little home and each other's companionship. But Molly had no such idea. Instead, she insisted on entertaining all who entertained us. This meant that we gave a series of dinners that cost more than we could afford. At last I set my foot down hard.

"See here," I said, "I am not a society bud, and I decline to be one. I will not pay for any more of these fool dinners such as we have been giving for the past two months."

"But," she protested, "everybody gives them."

"Then let us have the charm of originality," I proposed. "Let us cut out the dinners."

"What shall we have instead?" she asked, her eyes lighting at the thought of some new form of entertainment. Her face fell at my answer:

"We'll give nothing. At least I won't. And as I have not an unlimited income, you'd better decide to let the other fellows do the entertaining for the rest of this year."

"In other words," she retorted, "we'll be spongers and grafters!"

"Nothing of the sort!" I contradicted. "These people entertained us, we have returned the compliment. Now let the thing drop. The game's played."

"Then," she said, "am I to stay shut up in the house all the time and be lonely and stupid and bored to death?"

It did seem a bit hard and I saw that it did. So I modified my statement somewhat.

THE AFTERNOON TEA AS A PALATABLE SUBSTITUTE

"No," I said, "but if you must go to affairs, let them be to things that come off in the daytime, not at night. There are plenty of lunches and afternoon teas, if you like that kind of thing."

She followed my proposal with a vim that surprised me. If she did not receive an invitation to lunch, she asked some friend to go to a restaurant with her. I held my peace for a while, then I reminded her that it cost more to eat at a restaurant than at home.

"Since you must have some kind of social gayety," I suggested, "do make it some afternoon affair that does not necessitate the price of an elaborate meal."

The very next week she announced that she had decided to join a bridge club.

"That will be something pleasant for the afternoon," she remarked, "and it will not mean that I have to pay for a luncheon or for any other meal."

This seemed good to me, and I congratulated myself that having run the gamut of gayety, Molly would be satisfied with devoting an afternoon or two of each week to her friends and clothes.

I was doomed to speedy disappointment. When the Bridge Club was well under way I counted four afternoons out of the six working days when I reached home to find my wife absent until dinner time. Each time I spoke a gentle reproof, but it produced no effect.

I tried to be patient, but at the end of a month I could control my indignation no longer.

It was a cold and snowy evening, and I had had a hard day at the office. I reached home at a quarter of 7, and as I entered my apartment I called my wife.

The negro maid replied from the kitchen door: "She ain't in yet Dinner's ready, too, but I 'spec' she'll be home right soon."

HE STARTS IN TO EAT HIS DINNER ALONE

I waited until twenty minutes past 7. Then, as our regular dinner hour was 7, I told the maid to wait no longer. I seated myself at the table and had finished my soup when Molly entered hurriedly.

"Oh, I'm glad you began without me," she said. "I'll be ready in a minute."

"What detained you?" I asked sternly when she had returned to the dining room after laying aside her hat and wraps.

"We played late, and the street car came up slowly on account of the snow," she explained.

"When did you start uptown?" I queried.

Molly is truthful, and she answered frankly, "At a quarter of seven."

"And you expected to ride that distance on a surface car in fifteen minutes?" I joked.

She flushed angrily. "Would you have me leave before the other women did and thus break up the game?" she demanded.

"Yes," I declared, "I would! And if bridge means neglect of your husband and home, you will give it up."

"I won't!" she exclaimed. "We may as well have an understanding here and now. You have stopped every other amusement I have, and I mean to have a little fun. I declare"—her eyes flashing—"the idea of any man expecting to make up to a woman by his society for all the fun he wants her to lose!"

"Wives have a right to do as they please, just as much as husbands have. Some wives may submit to unreasonable rules and regulations, but I don't mean to! You may as well resign yourself to that fact."

I have not resigned myself to the fact, but I have to accept it—or lose my wife.

Going Too Far

As is so often the case, Parson Poodle tried to improve the shining hour by giving advice from his fount of learning—advice which he himself never followed.

With much pomposusness, he conducted the village wedding, and wound up with a touching little homily to the bride.

"Let no quarrels mar your married life," he said feelingly. "Remember that the best way to show love and obey your husband, and it is her duty to follow him in all things."

"But, sir"—meekly interrupted the bride.

"Permit me to finish!" he said, in a chiding manner. "As I said before, it is her duty to follow him wherever he may go. She must"—

"But, sir," broke in the bride, in a more determined voice, "can't you alter that last bit? My husband's a postman!"

How to Absorb an Unlovely Complexion

The face which is admired for its beauty must have a satin-smooth skin, pink and white and youthful looking. The only thing I know of that can make such a complexion out of an aged, faded or discolored one—I mean a natural one, not artificial complexion—is ordinary mercolized wax. This remarkable substance literally absorbs the unsightly cuticle, a little each day, the clear, velvety, beautiful skin beneath gradually peeping out until within a week or two it is entirely revealed. All such blemishes as freckles, sallowness, moth patches, liver spots, blotches and pimples are disposed of with the old skin. If you will procure an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, use it as directed a few nights, washing the off mornings, you'll find it a veritable wonder-worker.

Another valuable natural treatment is a wash lotion to remove wrinkles which can be easily prepared. Dissolve 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel. Bathe the face in this and you'll find it "works like magic."—Phyllis Moore in Town Talk.—Advertisement.

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Montpelier, Vt.—"We have great faith in your remedies. I was very irregular and was tired and sleepy all the time, would have cold chills, and my hands and feet would bloat. My stomach bothered me, I had pain in my side and a bad headache most of the time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I would say to any woman who is better and my pains have all left me. You can use my name if you like. I am proud of what your remedies have done for me."—Mrs. MARY GAUTHIER, 21 Ridge St., Montpelier Vt.

An Honest, Dependable Medicine.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and today hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to any of the women whose testimonial letters we are constantly publishing. They will tell you their experience and give you confidence to try the medicine.

ANEASYWAYTOEND CATARRHFOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of This Dangerous Disease.

The reason why so many people who suffer from Catarrh become discouraged and get tired is that they are continually seeking the momentary relief of spraying, douching, greasy creams, ointments, etc. Such things do open the nasal passages and clear the head temporarily, but stopping for a while the disagreeable blowing, hawking, spitting and choking, but they never cure. To drive out Catarrh for good you have got to get down to its real cause. Catarrh is a germ disease. The air is always full of catarrh germs thrown off by those around and absorbed by another and when the system does not do its part to ward off such germs they find permanent lodgment in the nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly.

The germs of catarrh can best be destroyed by inhaling the pure medicinal air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei). This splendid and powerful combination of oil of Eucalyptus with other healing gents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe its air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which Piker-Jayne Drug Stores and other leading druggists in this vicinity supply with each package of treatment. This medicated air is certain death to the germs of Catarrh and soon clears completely out of your system and with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. Even two or three minutes use will give refreshing relief while if you will use it two or three times a day for a few weeks it will completely banish catarrh and every symptom of catarrh. As Hyomei is pleasant to breathe and is always sold by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.—Advertisement.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

This men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The mischief was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive functions, or assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny fawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are now eating and at every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol thus mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh and Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.

OFFER ANTI-VOTE AND LIQUOR LETTERS

In support of the charge that the liquor interests and the anti-suffrage workers are in alliance, Gertrude Halladay Leonard, chairman of the executive board of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, today made public two letters.

The first is a letter signed by Edward H. Pinkham, general secretary of the Massachusetts Liquor League, introducing Dennis F. Reardon as "a good friend of our cause in the Legislature with voice and vote."

The second is a letter signed by Dennis F. Reardon as treasurer of the Massachusetts Voters' Anti-Suffrage League, soliciting help in raising funds to "send speakers to every city and town in the Commonwealth to advance the Anti-Suffrage cause." This letter quotes the endorsement of the Massachusetts Liquor League for the movement. The two letters, of which the suffragists say they have the originals, read as follows:

MASSACHUSETTS LIQUOR LEAGUE
27 Haymarket Sq., Rooms 41, 42, 43
Boston, Mass., July 17, 1915.

To Whom It May Concern.

This note will serve to introduce Representative Dennis F. Reardon of the 15th Suffolk District, who has been a good friend of our cause in the Legislature with voice and vote, and will personally explain his mission.

Anything you can do to make our cause a success will be appreciated by

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) EDWARD H. PINKHAM

DIVORCE SUIT IS END OF HARVARD MAN'S ROMANCE

Mrs. Gladys Dorothea Jones, Jr. (nee Kemp), who sues for divorce. She was a Providence girl when she eloped six years ago.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Frank Case-nove Jones, Jr., who, when a student at Harvard six years ago eloped with and married Gladys Dorothea Kemp at Providence, and who is now being sued for divorce, will defend the case, it became known today.

The former Harvard student's romance with the society girl caused almost as much stir in the social set as has her filing a suit for divorce. She was nineteen when they were married. She was already noted as a yachtswoman. Jones was then twenty-one.

Young Jones entered Harvard in 1906 and studied there until 1909. After the elopement and wedding, the couple lived in this city. He is the son of Frank C. Jones, wealthy president of the W. A. Underhill Brick Company. He has filed an answer denying his wife's charges of misconduct and declaring that he will fight the suit. Justice Donnelly in the Supreme Court has named Charles S. Guggenheim to try the suit.

Some time before the marriage Mrs. Kemp said:

"If my daughter were of marriageable age I would say to her: Don't wed a fashionable millionaire. Millions for a young man mean idleness and idleness, as every thinker knows, is mother of vice.

The details of the Jones divorce case were not accessible today, but could young Jones be located at his home at No. 37 Madison avenue.

The favorable trade balance was but $6,672,241, also the lowest since a year ago last August.

Claim "Dry" Victory in South Carolina

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 14.—South Carolina is voting today on the question of State-wide prohibition for the first time in its history, with the "Drys" claiming they will carry the State by 5 to 1 and destroy the dispensary system fathered by U. S. Senator Tillman.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association, January 17, 1914, was the following:

"It has been many times asserted that in tuberculosis or in the pre-tuberculosis stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost, both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to lime loss the success of Eckman's Alterative in arresting may be due, in part to its consent of a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged consumptives to attend strictly to matters of food, but often some effective remedial agent is needed. In many cases of apparent recovery Eckman's Alterative seems to have provided this need. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, and is safe to try. Sold by all druggists. Have good booklet sent you.

MORTON F. PLANT BUYS BOSTON HERALD

The Boston Herald and Traveler were sold at auction today on a foreclosure sale as the result of defaulting interest on bonds. The purchase price was $1,850,000. Only $30,000 changed hands at the sale, however. The actual purchaser was Morton F. Plant, New York financier, with some associates. Mr. Plant was already a large holder of the company's securities.

The foreclosure sale was held in the office of the treasurer in the Herald building on Tremont street. The property was sold by the Commonwealth Trust Company, trustee, on 20-year, 5 per cent. refunding bonds on which the Herald and Traveler had failed to make their semi-annual interest payment.

There were about fifteen present at the sale, including Charles F. Choate, attorney for the Herald, and Wallis Baird, representing the Commonwealth Trust Company. John Kiley was the auctioneer. F. DeC. Sullivan bid in the property. His deposited three $10,000 bills to bind the bargain.

Sullivan said he was acting for Morton F. Plant. Later the Herald issued the following statement:

"The property of Boston Herald, Incorporated, was sold at public sale at 10 o'clock this morning, by the Commonwealth Trust Company of Boston, to Mr. F. DeC. Sullivan of New York, the representative of Morton F. Plant and certain other holders of securities of Boston Herald, Incorporated, for $1,850,000, one of the largest figures at which a newspaper has ever been sold in this city.

"Mr. Sullivan acquired the property for the Boston Publications Company, a Massachusetts corporation organized by him and his associates.

"The officers of the Boston Publications Company, elected this morning, are:

OFFICERS OF COMPANY.

"Robert Lincoln O'Brien, president.
"F. DeC. Sullivan, vice-president.
"James H. Higgins, treasurer and general manager.
"Thomas W. Streeter, clerk.
"Messrs. O'Brien, Sullivan and Higgins constitute the new board of directors.

"By the transfer of this morning, Mr. Morton F. Plant, whose interests are represented by Mr. F. DeC. Sullivan, largely increases the percentage of his ownership in voting securities of the company publishing the Boston Herald and Evening Traveler, and becomes the largest holder of all classes of securities of the Boston Publications Company.

"Certain of the individuals and others owning voting stock of Boston Herald Incorporated have no longer any ownership or interest in the voting securities of the company now publishing the Boston Herald and Evening Traveler.

"The editorial and news policy of the Boston Herald and Evening Traveler will be under the direction of Mr. O'Brien, and the business management of the two papers will be under the direction of James H. Higgins.

"The operating staff will remain unchanged.

"The sale effects a reorganization which puts the ownership of the Herald and Traveler in strong hands.

"The new company voted to assume responsibility for all valid, unsecured claims of Boston Herald, Incorporated."

PLANT VERY WEALTHY.

Morton F. Plant of New London, Ct., the purchaser of the Herald and Traveler, is one of the richest men in the country. He is a director of the New Haven road and his name is most familiar in connection with the Plant line of steamships.

He was born in New Haven and in 1865 went into the express business in Memphis, Tenn. In 1884 he became associated with the Plant system of railways and was vice-president till 1902, when the system became part of the Atlantic Coast Line, in which he is a director.

He is vice-president and a director of the Peninsular & Occidental Steamship Company, or the C. I. & L. Railway, chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Express Company and a director of the New Haven.

700 AT LOWELL PLANT NOW ON STRIKE

LOWELL, Sept. 14.—The number of strikers at the Lowell plant of the United Cartridge Company today increased to 700. This meant 300 added to the original 400 strikers.

Of those who struck today 125 were girls. One hundred and fifty girls are now on strike.

The strikers marched to Carpenter's Hall and held an enthusiastic meeting while waiting for the arrival of Frank McCarthy of Boston, an organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who was to outline a plan of campaign.

The police were on hand at the mill today in anticipation of trouble, but their services were not needed.

The strikers, through a committee, yesterday presented their demands to the management of the plant. They ask 15 per cent. increase for men, 20 per cent. increase for women. Sunday nights off without loss of pay and no discrimination against strikers.

The management of the mill refused all demands, on the ground they could not pay and make any money.

The management said today that 2,000 employes were still at work, and that thus far the places of the strikers have been filled without difficulty.

The company is prosperous, has orders enough to keep is busy for three years and is building additions to the plant to take care of new business. In a year 5,000 will be employed at the plant. A recent weekly payroll totalled $50,000.

The employe get from 13 to 14 cents an hour. When the war began a monthly bonus of 20 per cent. of the monthly earnings was given every employe. That was later reduced to 12 per cent., then raised to 16 per cent., where it now stands. At present every employe receives this monthly bonus.

Urge Instruction on Ballot Marking

Chairman Edward A. Thurston of the Republican State Committee has sent letters to the Republican city and town committees urging measures to educate the voters in marking the new non-partisan ballots. The points emphasized for Republicans are:

"Vote for candidates in the Republican column only.

"If you mark a cross against the name of a single candidate outside the Republican column, your whole ballot will bet thrown out.

Baby's Cries Prove Burglar's Undoing in Roxbury Home

Crawling through a window of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alpert's apartment on the third floor of No. 28 Devon street, Roxbury, a burglar inadvertently put his foot in a cradle that was near the window. The baby screamed and awoke Alperts, who jumped up and pulled the intruder into the room.

There was a battle in which the man rolled about the floor, upsetting the furniture. Patrolman Margitte of the Dudley street station heard the commotion and forcing the front door, made his way upstairs. With his assistance the burglar, who gave his name as John M. McDougal of Bernard street, Dorchester, was subdued and taken to the Dudley street station.

He was later arraigned in the Roxbury District court and held in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

Two Are Injured in Whitman Auto Crash

Two persons narrowly escaped serious injuries when two automobiles met in collision at what is known as "Dead Man's Corner," Temple and Bedford streets, Whitman, the scene of a bad accident a few nights ago. Miss Estella Grimes of Whitman was driving one machine and John Varaus of Rockland the other car. Both were slightly hurt.

Baw Young Tries to End Life in Cell

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 14.—Baw Young, the Chinaman accused of a triple murder last Sunday when the police say he stabbed Ong Ten and shot Wu Shee Chang and Ng Hong, mutilated himself in the Springfield jail last night. His groans attracted the attention of a guard, and he was removed to the Springfield Hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

POLICE HALT ELOPEMENT OF GIRL

HAVERHILL, Sept. 14.—Frieda Mamis, thirteen, who eloped from her home here and went to Manchester Sunday to be married, has been brought home by Captain Hussey, Christopher Caravides, twenty-two, who took her to Manchester, and George Giniares, who accompanied the couple are being held for "enticing the girl without the consent of her father for the purpose of effecting a clandestine marriage."

Arthur Mamis, the girls father, would like to prosecute the men under the Mann act, holding that the use of a hired automobile brings the case under that law. He had ordered his daughter not to meet Caravides.

When she left here she visited the Giniares house and learned that the two men were away.

The trio drove across the State line and stopped in Manchester, where Miss Mamis went to the house of the Greek priest and told him she wished to be married. When she was unable to prove the consent of her parents, the priest telephoned to the police.

Caravides and his companion waited for almost an hour expecting the girl to return and announce the plans for the marriage. When she did not come they went to the house of the priest. Their inquiry for the girl further aroused the priest's suspicions. He told them the girl was in another room and would be ready for the ceremony in a short time. While they waited, he called the police.

When Miss Mamis saw the prospective bridegroom and best man as well as herself in the police station, she concluded that the marriage must be postponed and decided to tell the police who she was and where she lived. The Manchester police telephoned to the local police and to her father.

PLUTO WATER AMERICA'S PHYSIC

LOOK FOR BIG ENTRY LIST FOR SWIM

FILL THIS OUT.

Please enter me in Girls' Championship Swim.

NAME.....

AGE.....

ADDRESS.....

The most spectacular swimming event of the summer, the Boston AMERICAN'S eleventh annual swimming carnival to be held in the Charles River Basin next Saturday afternoon, will have entries who will outnumber those of any previous year, if the number already received is any indication.

One hundred and sixteen entries was last year's mark. This year there will probably be more. Entries are still open, and the chance to win fame among the finest girl swimmers in the United States, the New England swimmers.

The Charles River Basin is one of the show places of Boston. Some say it is the finest body of water in any city in the country. It is an ideal spot for a race, roomy, smooth, easily accessible and with plenty of vantage points along the esplanades for spectators.

EXPECT BIG CROWD.

Therefore the crowd of spectators Saturday afternoon is apt to be a tremendous gathering. The race is a beautiful spectacle. In previous years it has delighted the spectators. The girls entered are in almost every case masters of their art, though some are capable of better speed and have more endurance than others.

The five splendid prizes offered have attracted the best amateur girl swimmers in Boston, and entries have come from as far away as Portland, Me., and Ludlow, out near Springfield.

The race will start promptly at 3:30 Saturday afternoon. The course will be as in previous years, a little over a mile and a half long. The swimmers will go first upstream, then around a stake boat, then down to the finish.

The officials, competent men, have already been chosen. Arrangements have been made to care for the crowd of spectators. The Metropolitan Park Police have co-operated. Life savers, boats, Red Cross tents—all will be ready as in former years.

ENTER AT ONCE.

To enter is the easiest thing in the world. To win against the field of skilful swimmers who will compete will not be so easy. To win means to write your name on the scroll of fame in natatorial circles. Winners in previous years have gone into the professional ranks with success.

To enter, just fill out the blank at the top of the column and mail or bring to the Swimming Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston. There is no fee. Give your name, address and age.

And even if you don't enter, plan to come and see the race. Come and bring your friends. It will be worth seeing. The thousands on thousands who have seen it in previous years will be sure to try to be on hand, and there will be thousands of new spectators.

It is the big event of the season for the girl swimmers of Boston and New England.

So—

Don't miss it.

Burrill Suffragist, Miss Spencer Says

Miss Edna Lawrence Spencer, Suffragist, in a letter today declared false rumors to the effect that State Treasurer Burrill was a "rabid anti," She says that "nothing is further from the truth," and adds:

"Mr. Burrill was forced, through stress of circumstances, and much against his personal wishes, to deny certain requests of a group of Suffragists relative to the entertainment of the wives of delegates of the equal suffrage States during the Governors' Conference in Boston. As a Suffragist and one who knows Mr. Burrill to be a sincere and earnest advocate of votes for women, I wish to correct any false impression. Suffragists are proud to count Mr. Burrill a Suffragist."

One of the curious sights of Indianapolis is the method of testing cars adopted by the branch of the Ford Motor Company in that city. To get the best view of it one would have to go up in an aeroplane. At the Indianapolis branch the Fords are tested on the roof of the building, the manager deciding to use the broad expanse of aerial floor space for that purpose. The Ford motion picture department has made some interesting films of this unique testing ground and they form an important part of the most recent Ford Animated Weekly, the motion picture service of topical and news events sent to more than 2,000 theatres throughout the country.

EVA TANGUAY IS HEADLINER AT KEITH'S

Eva Tanguay came to town in her usual "I don't care" manner and is located for the week at B. F. Keith's Theatre. Her watchword now is "preparedness" and her act showed she was prepared to deliver a pleasing entertainment.

At the two performances yesterday she romped and raved in her usual riotous manner. Many in the large audience let loose their enthusiasm before she appeared before the footlights.

Most of her new songs are about herself, and she delights in dwelling on her temperament, on the various fact of her unusual voice and upon the abbreviation of her costumes. Many new costumes have been added to her act, all have as their objective the incitement to laughter and they are glaringly grotesque. But she made the big noise. There was tremendous applause and all sang "The Little Grasshopper Jumped Over the Big Grasshopper's Back."

Craig Campbell, late of "The Pixies" company, was heard in a nicely varied group of songs. Gifted with an ingratiating manner and an agreeable tenor voice, he offered a song hard to restrain himself, for there was the endeavor always to get out the part. His number from "I Pagliacci" was perhaps his best selection, but we must not forget "Because" and "Dreams" and "I hear You Calling Me." Mr. Campbell was accompanied at the piano by Josef Martin.

Harry Girard and company pleased in the melodramatic sketch "The Luck of a Totem." The piece, nicely staged, was chiefly entertaining through the splendid character acting of Mr. Jafolla as the half-breed.

Others that contributed to this excellent bill were Jack Corcoran and Tom Dingle in "A Vaudeville Splash"; Billy Tower and Maybelle Darnell in a dancing and comedy specialty; Edwina Barry and Company in a tipping farce, "The Home Breaker." Lambert and Frederick in dancing and singing sketch that is full of promise for the future of this pair; Heleno and Emilion, novelty gymnasts; McLellan and Carson in a roller skating act, and the Pathe weekly pictures.

Plays That Remain in Boston Theatres

The third week of the remarkable engagement of "Experience" at the Shubert Theatre was ushered in last night with another capacity audience. Not in many years has any dramatic offering achieved the success scored by "Experience," which has turned hundreds of people away at every performance.

Last night ushered in the fourth week of "Nobody Home" at the Wilbur Theatre, where that popular musical comedy has met with phenomenal success. Lawrence Grossmith wins new laurels at each performance.

Boston certainly likes "The Girl from Utah," and its three stars, Julia Sanderson, Donald Brian and Joseph Cawthorn. This musical comedy importation from London broke all records at the Colonial last year and is now repeating its popularity on the occasion of the return engagement.

* * *

"Twin Beds" continues in its reign of popularity at the Park Square Theatre, where it began the third week of its Boston engagement. As a mirth provoker "Twin Beds" is one of the best farces that has visited this city in years, and ought to stay here for some time to come.

* * *

If you would obtain a glimpse of the workings of the spy system utilized by the various warring nations of the great European struggle don't fail to see William A. Brady's "The White Feather," now in its second week at the Plymouth Theatre.

* * *

Boston's appreciation for the continuation of the engagement of D. W. Griffith's mighty spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," which began the fourth week of its record-breaking engagement in this city at the Majestic Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening, is evidenced.

* * *

"The Song of Songs," Edward Sheldon's sensational and much-discussed play, continues as the attraction at the Tremont Theatre, where last evening it entered upon the second and next to the last week of its engagement in this city.

Provincetown Trips.

What is announced as positively the last week of the season of all-day deep-sea trips to Provincetown on the big iron steamship, Dorothy Bradford of the Cape Cod Line, will end with the trip on Monday next.

HOLLIS FARCE IS SPICED WITH SUGGESTION

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"She's in Again," a farce comedy by Thomas A. Dey, now at the Hollis, a French farce called "My Aunt From Houfleur," opened an engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening and incidentally began the dramatic season at that historic playhouse.

The piece is presented by Ned Wayburn and is described as for amusing purposes only. Truth requires the admission that it is very, very funny. Laughter is piled up in the first three acts until it climbs to a shriek at the final curtain.

The means by which the merriment is achieved—ah, that's so, nothing else again. "She's in Again" is queer. In a season when suggestive farce comedies are the fashion the night before last one of fashion's extremes.

You probably saw the newspaper advertisements of the lady in the bathtub. Well, somebody opens a bathroom door just before the final curtain and discloses a lady sitting in a tub and apparently enjoying a bath. This is merely the climax of a scene in which several people, male and female, are assigned by mistake to the same room and two of them even retire in the dark. The situations awaken screams of laughter, but why wouldn't they? Improper stories always create the most amusement.

The "She" in "She's in Again" is Ada Lewis, a forlorn old maid who enters by mistake a gentleman's bachelor apartments in the first act, and while trying to get out, keeps getting in again. There is a broad-minded aunt from Kalamazoo who believes in her nephew's sowing his wild oats. There is also a not unpleasant girl who is pursuing a recreant fiance. There are two young men who lie valiantly but ineffectually, and two of them even regard to one of them and wants to marry the other, and other complications wit out number.

No actress now on the stage can make a female part more grotesque and genuinely funny than Miss Lewis, and as the indiscreet old maid she has one of her best parts.

In Mac Hopkins they have found a girl who can read the flat lines given to the chorus girl trouble-maker as though she always talked like that. Edwin Nicander, George Schaffer and Clarence Oliver are a trio of funmakers that would make a much duller farce than this a success. Miss Sarah McVicker, George E. Riddell and Ann Warrington do excellent work.

Modern Theatre.

"The Song of Hate," an absorbing photo-adaption of that familiar and beloved "La Tosca," with Betty Nansen as Florie, is the leading attraction for this week at the Modern Theatre.

La Tosca, a beautiful opera singer, gives her love to Mario, a young artist who has incurred by his success the bitter hatred of Baron Scarpia, Prefect of Police, who has also been a suitor for the prima donna's love. Inspired by his hatred of the young man, the Baron causes his arrest on a fake charge and as the price of his freedom demands that Tosca give herself to him. The rest of the program contains several interesting numbers, topped by Cookson and Lovigne, the regular Pathe weekly.

Waldron's Casino.

"The Girl Trust," the current attraction at Waldron Casino, is certain to please all patrons of high-class burlesque. This is the kind that is given nowadays at all of the theatres of the Columbia Amusement Company's wheel, the very best in every particular since the formation of this circuit.

Primarily, "The Girl Trust" is a laughing show with Comedian Frank A. Hurt in the lead in the fun line. Pretty Maudie Heath, a Boston girl, is the comedienne of the company. Edna Green, a snappy, dashy soubrette sings and dances her way into the affections of her audience. Nellie Francis is a superb vocalist; Augusta Lang, stately and an excellent dresser, and Arthur Putnam, John Bohlman and Tom Spring round out a cast of unusual quality.

Scollay Square Olympia.

A splendid bill of vaudeville and photo-plays was shown to large audiences at the Scollay Square Olympia yesterday. The bill included Clifford and Douglass in a clever singing, talking and dancing offering; three Winsome harmonists in a splendid musical number; Calloway and Roberts, three blackface comedians; Verdi Quintette, a high-class singing and musical offering; "Graduation Days," a lively minature musical comedy; Ross Rentz Troupe, the celebrated European acrobatic novelty; "The Wolf Man," in four parts, featuring Miss Billie West and Ralph Lewis; Hearst Selig No. 73, showing the great Boston Labor Day parade and the international news.

Gaiety Theatre.

At the Gaiety Theatre this week, Gus Hill offers the Midnight Maidens in a hilariously funny travesty entitled "Casey and Duffy."

The cast, which is a very exceptional one, includes Rosa Snow, probably the most finished actor to adopt burlesque as a field for his talents. Equally as well known and talented is Pete Curley, whose Tad character is known to every lover of good burlesque.

Miss Rose Kessner, undoubtedly the best eccentric dancer now before the public; Miss Daisy Hunt, prima donna; Arnou and Myers, specialty dancers and singers; the Astor Quartet, and Jolly Johnny Larkins, one of the funniest colored comedians in the world; not forgetting the famous Midnight Maidens chorus of beautiful girls of no uncertain age in the company.

Coming Events in Boston Theatres

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Seats for the engagement of Zeigfeld Follies were placed on sale at the box office of the Colonial Theatre yesterday and there was a lively demand. It was at the Colonial that Boston first saw the "Follies of 1907," and each time a new edition of these revues has been played at that theatre the records have been shattered. The same condition promises to be repeated this year as New Yorkers voted the Summer show at the New Amsterdam Theatre the best ever given by Mr. Ziegfeld.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The seat sale for the San Carlo Grand Opera Company's engagement at the Boston Opera House next week opened yesterday both at the Opera House box office and Steinert's music store. The exchanges have accorded the San Carlo forces such extraordinary praises that the fact of popular prices next week is an outstanding feature in local interest in the event.

TREMONT TEMPLE.

The regular season of the Tremont Temple will open on next Monday afternoon with the presentation of the picture in Boston of the most wonderful collection of war pictures made since the beginning of the great war. The pictures are shown in five reels and present the most vivid glimpses of the horrors of war. Important of these is the "Battle and Fall of Przemysl."

Park Theatre.

Charlotte Walker in "Out of Darkness" and Blanche Sweet in "The Case of Becky" are the two Paramount headliners being shown at the Park Theatre.

Surrounding these two top-notchers are also a splendid array of extraordinary high quality offerings, including the musical program by Charles Prank's Paramount concert orchestra, the Park topical review and Pathe News, the Paramount South American travel pictures, the Park concert soloists and a mirth-pulling comedy picture.

In "Out of Darkness," with Charlotte Walker in the stellar role, is an attraction which will surely meet with approval. In "Out of Darkness" she will be seen as a wealthy society girl interested in pleasure to pay no attention to the conditions of thousands of struggling workers who toil for millions for her.

Supporting Blanche Sweet in the Lasky picturization of "The Case of Becky" will be seen Theodore Roberts, Carlyle Blackwell and James Neill.

Loew's St. James.

An all-star vaudeville show was presented at the St. James Theatre yesterday. Among the feature acts to appear was Janet Adair, a former star of musical comedies, who pleased with her character songs. Miss Adair was assisted by Miss Adelphi. Henry Frye, who calls himself the "German Sousa," kept the house in an uproar. A farce-comedy sketch was presented by Hebe Carel and Pierlot-Pierces company, entitled "I Die." Others to appear were Adele Mercray, singing the comedienne, and Les Carringtons, in novelty specialty which pleased. The Leo Feist's Serenaders delighted the audiences with their latest song hits. An extra added feature was the first screen appearance of Sam Bernard in "Poor Schmaltz." It is announced that each half of the week big features will be presented and such stars as Mary Pickford, John Barrymore, Hazel Dawn, John Mason and many other stars will be presented.

Loew's Globe.

What was declared to be one of the best shows of the season was witnessed at the Globe Theatre yesterday. Among the feature acts to appear was the popular stars, Darrell and Conway. Another act of merit was that clever comedy playlet entitled "When It Strikes Home," which was presented by the Roland West players. Danny Simmons entertained in his original military hobo specialty. Eleanor Sutter, a clever character comedienne, delighted. The Leo Feist's Singers scored a hit with their latest song offerings. Among the feature photo plays was "The Diamond from the Sky."

Wife Is Able to Put Up Peaches

Boston Man Relates How Plant Juice Cured His Wife of Stomach Trouble.

It is always interesting to listen to the statements of our friends, especially when one knows they are sincere and honest in what they say. Added interest is created in a statement coming from a man of standing and integrity. Such a man is Mr. Charles A. Warner, who resides at No. 2 Pickering Place, South Boston. Mr. Warner is a well-known lodge man of this city. He stated:

"My wife, Mrs. Emily Warner, has suffered with stomach trouble for years. Also indigestion, dyspepsia, and she had rheumatism so badly in her arms and limbs that she was unable to get upstairs, and would have to drag herself on her hands and knees. It was impossible for her to get on to a street car and she never, scarcely, was able to go out. Her food would ferment in her stomach and cause gas and great distress, after eating—in fact, she could scarcely keep any solid food in her stomach. She was restless and nervous and could not get any sleep at night and was not able to do her housework. She had tried various remedies without relief, and did not know what to do. A friend told her about Plant Juice and how it had cured others, so I got a bottle for her. She has now taken two bottles, and can eat any kind of food, has no more aches or pains, and is now able to walk all over. She is putting up peaches and doing all her housework. She cannot say enough in praise of Plant Juice, for it has cured her."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any one of the following may denote stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of wind, poor circulation, sick, throbbing headaches, night sweats, that tired feeling, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

CRAIG PLAYERS APPEAR IN NEW PLAY

He Fall in Love With His Wife," taken from E. P. Roe's famous novel, was the presentation of the John Craig Players at the Castle Square yesterday afternoon and evening. It is a most interesting love story with many clever lines and amusing incidents.

It has it pathetic scenes also, and throughout affords the cast opportunity to display their talent in many directions. It is a story of James Holcroft, a wealthy farmer who lives in a quaint rural town, full of gossip and good things to eat, as Donald Meek well portrays.

Holcroft, upon the death of his wife, strongly believes that he will never marry again. Then comes Alida Armstrong. She comes to live in what she thought to be a most peaceful village, to try and forget the sad that had been dealt her, and tricked into a mock marriage.

The country folk look upon her with suspicion and her position is finally a most uncomfortable one. She meets Holcroft. They marry, the marriage being a business contract as Holcroft explains. He finds that he loves the girl. How he regains the honor of this charming girl and how finally love triumphs over the business-proposition marriage, make a very absorbing story.

Betty Barnhart, as Alida, was at her best. She has already won her way to the hearts of the Castle Square patrons. Miss Barnhart's performances yesterday stamps her as one of John Craig's ablest finds in many seasons.

William Carleton, as Holcroft, the farmer, played his part in his customary splendid manner. Donald Meek, as simple Timothy, the chore boy, kept the house in an uproar with his antics and had everyone wondering where he got all the fruit which he always had in his possession.

Al Roberts as the Justice, and Theodore Friebus played in their usually finished manner, and Justine Adams, the season's new ingenue, showed that she was an actress of no small calibre.

George Ernst and Miss Vida Sidned were the other members of the cast who helped to make the adaptation of his popular novel such a success upon its first presentation in Boston.

Bury Mother of Five Sets of Twins in Maine

YARMOUTH, Me., Sept. 14.—Mary Arsenault, wife of Archie Arsenault, has just been buried with the tears of the entire community.

Mrs. Arsenault was born forty-one years ago in Egmont Bay, P. E. I., her parents being Nathan and Elizabeth (Longue) Gallant. She was the mother of five pairs of twins, two babies being born the day of her death.

Fourteen children are now living, two of whom are married. The family came here from Bath four years ago.

Turkish City of Phocaea Burning

By International News Service.

ATHENS, Sept. 14.—The Turkish city of Phocaea, on the coast of Asia Minor is burning as the result of a bombardment by allied warships. The city has been on fire since last Friday, when the ships began shelling it. Phocaea is twenty-five miles northwest of Smyrna.

Boston Theatre.

Emily Stevens, the superb emotional actress and late star of "To-Day," in the inspiring romance of mother-love "The Soul of a Woman," is delighting audiences at the Boston Theatre this week. Miss Stevens is at her very best in the role of the woman whose destiny takes her in paths widely apart from those of her son, only to eventually meet her boy at last on the threshold of his home.

The play is in five acts, and the story is of intense interest, and at times almost heart-rending in its appeal. Miss Stevens is supported by a splendid company. "He couldn't Make His Brain Behave," with Miss Katherine Ward in the principal role and "The Widow Sweet," is a purely local drama from the pen of Ed Payne, the famous cartoonist. All the scenes are laid in Boston, and all of the actors are Boston people.

"You Know Me, Al," baseball stories adapted from Ring Lardner's pen, Mary Pickford in a new romance; Caroline B. Nichols and The Fadettes, and other features complete an excellent show.

COUPLE TO WED AFTER HARVARD ROMANCE

LENOX, Sept. 14.—A romance that began in the chemical laboratory at Harvard College, when they met at their class was taking the specific gravity of gold, will culminate on September 22 at the home of the bride's parents in East Aurora, N. Y., when Albert Sprague Coolidge of Pittsfield, heir to millions, and Miss Margaret Stewart Colt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Colt, are united in marriage.

Mr. Coolidge is the only son of Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge of West Street, Pittsfield, and the son of Dr. Frederick S. Coolidge, who died recently from diseases contracted in hospital practice while aiding the poor. He is also a grandson of the late Albert Sprague, who was the pioneer merchant of Chicago.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will go to Cambridge, where he will take a post-graduate course in chemistry at Harvard, and will thus complete her course in science in Radcliffe.

A FINE TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

EASY TO MAKE AND COSTS LITTLE

Catarrh is such an insidious disease and has become so prevalent during the past few years that its treatment should be understood by all.

Science has fully proved that Catarrh is a constitutional disease and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Sprays, inhalers, douches seldom if ever give permanent relief. often drive the disease further down the air passages and into the lungs.

If you have Catarrh or Catarrhal deafness or head-noises, go to your druggist and get one ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved, take one tablespoonful 4 times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head-noises; hawking and spitting should cease, hoarseness easy and mucus stop dripping into the throat.

This treatment has a slight tonic action which makes it especially effective in cases where the blood has become thin and weak. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every person who wishes to be free from this destructive disease should give this treatment a trial.—Advertisement.

Carlisle Indians Down to Real Work

CARLISLE, Sept. 14.—With the formal opening of the football season scheduled for Carlisle on the coming Saturday, the Indians under the direction of Coaches Victor Kelly, Gus Welch and John McIlhenny put in an afternoon of warm work here.

Following the fundamentals a twenty-minute scrimmage of intensity characteristic of the redskins gave opportunity for keen competition for a number of positions. Two new men—William, a tackle, and Chase at guard—gave Welmas and Martel, veterans, a hard chase.

Numerous changes were made in the lineup of the first and second elevens. Tibbits showed strength in the backfield. Captain Calac, Blackbird and Fred Broker did the punting.

The Indians play in New York city November 29.

DECLARE GIBBONS 'PULLED' PUNCHES

By TAD.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—New Yorkers are still sore over that motordrome-hypodrome fight. They are not sore at McFarland. He did just as was expected. He never has done much better. No one ever dreamed of him flattening Mr. Gibbons of St. Paul.

What they are sore at is the exhibition put up by the St. Paul wizard.

Did you ever see Gibbons miss so much in your life before? Did you ever see Gibbons stand six feet away from an opponent and pull an uppercut?

No, you bet you did not, and neither did anyone else.

One man who was uptown last night thought that Gibbons was one of the most ungrateful fellows he had ever seen. He said:

"That fellow came here with nothing but holes in his shoes. He was unknown and was given a chance. He fought Willie Lewis twice and showed us that he was there. He drew down $37. I believe. He was given another chance because the New York sports wanted to see him. He beat Walter Coffey and they demanded more of him. Gibbons was on the level with these guys and trimmed them to the Queen's taste.

"The New York papers treated him royally. They treated him so well. In fact, that his representative was good for out-of-town fights. He fought around more, beating Clabby, Mcallister and Ahearn. He was really a wizard. He had a chance to show his appreciation of his treatment here when he got the match with McFarland. He had a chance to show us what he could do to a boy who had never been beaten around these parts.

"We were a bit suspicious. It did look a bit queer for a casey guy offering to fight him. McFarland, you know, would never fight Gans or Nelson. He could not hit. He knew it and so did everybody else. He admitted to Nelson that his ring record was padded with knockouts to make it look better. He never knocked out a first-class boy in his life. Well, it looked queer.

"Now, we want to know how it is that Mike can easily outbox Clabby, a better man than McFarland ever will be, and knock out other good men, and how is it that he did not even warm up with McFarland.

"Mike was the dangerous man and the man we expected things of. Instead of that he pulls a divver.

"I hear he's gone duck hunting. Well, if his eye for distance isn't any better than it was Saturday night the ducks neet not worry.

"We've had all we want of McFarland and Gibbons, thank you."

And then he lit a pill and looked up at the ceiling.

BUNGED-UP BOYS TACKLE CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Just what the lineup of the Braves will be when they take the field to battle the Cubs in the fourth game of the series this afternoon is an open question. Manager Stallings has a serious proposition confronting him and all the "fans" are waiting for developments.

The Braves' chase for the pennant appears to be one bit of hard luck after another. The latest member to join the hospital squad is Fred Snodgrass, who was spiked in the wrist yesterday. Snodgrass was playing first base in place of "Butch" Schmidt, who was sent back home on account of an injury.

Sherwood Magee will probably go to first and Oscar Dugey will put in the outfield, sore knee and all.

Lefty Tyler is booked to do the hurling for the Braves and will probably draw Lavender or Douglas as his opponent.

Umpires Rigler and Eason pulled a funny one in yesterday's game. With two on in the fourth inning Sater hit a vicious line drive to left. Moran was playing out there and attempted to make a shoestring catch. Rigler, working behind the bat, thought he did and waved the batter out. Moran saw that and stood holding the ball, figuring, of course, that the side was retired.

Fisher and Phelan were on the bench, however, and then the Braves began to yell to Herb to throw the ball, as Eason had also made a decision and his was that the sphere was trapped instead of being caught and that everyone was at liberty to run. Before Moran could get in action both runners had counted.

Of course there was a big protest, for Rigler clearly waved the batter out and Moran was abiding by his decision, while Eason just as clearly waved the batter safe and the Quins were accepting that version. Two were out at the time so that Moran cannot be accused of pulling a "boner."

Eddie Moy, Philadelphia, stopped Jack Quigley, Boston, in the "Young" Fidler of Des Moines in a hot six-round bout.

Tigers Must Hurry to Beat Out Hose

The following "just supposing" figures are subject to a good deal of torpedoing, but say, 'fringiance:

That the Red Sox win the remaining two with the White Sox, take two of four from the Tigers, one of six from Cleveland, two of three from St. Louis, one of two from Washington and three of five from the Yankees, they would win thirteen of twenty-two and close with 102 wins and 52 losses, for a percentage of .662.

While this is going on, say 'fringstance:

That the Tigers split even in the two left with the Yankees, break even with the Red Sox, take three straight from the Macks, three in five from Washington, two straight from Cleveland and both the games they couldn't play. Labor Day with the Browns, they would win thirteen out of eighteen and close with 101 wins and 53 losses for a final percentage of .656.

Meaning 'fringstance, that the Sox would cop by six points.

School Football.

LACK of material, coach and suitable equipment has forced Hudson High to resign from the Midland League, for the football season at least. This leaves an opening for Clinton High. It has been trying to break into the organization for two seasons.

* * *

WITH nine veterans available from its 1914 eleven, Westboro High, which finished among the leaders in the Midland League last Fall, should be able to give the other members a battle for top honors.

* * *

ATHLETIC relations between Abington and Rockland H., which were broken off two years ago, have been resumed. Principal Paule, who has had considerable experience with New Jersey football teams, will coach Abington. Abington's schedule follows: Sept. 24, at Weymouth; Oct. 3, at Brockton; Oct. 16, at Plymouth; Nov. 10, Plymouth at Abington; Nov. 16, at Hingham; Nov. 25, Alumni.

UNDER the direction of Coach Charles Cuddy, Swampscott will commence practice at Paradise Park, September 29. Following is its schedule: Oct. 2, Brighton; Oct. 9, Arlington; Oct. 9, Hyde Park; Oct. 12, Chelsea; Oct. 16, at Revere; Oct. 20, open; Oct. 23, Winchester; Oct. 30, Milton; Nov. 6, Melrose; Nov. 13, Lynn English High at Lynn; Nov. 25, at Marblehead.

RINDGE TECH, thought by many to be the second best team in the State last Fall, is well fixed for material. Dan Kelly, quarterback; "Tubber" White, fullback; Walter Coleman, tackle, and Cedarstrand, end, are the old horses who will be sadly missed. Captain Ernest Metivier has Pat Angus, Lawrence Sands, Joe Hubbard, D. Metivier and K. Bunton as veterans with which to start building the new machine.

RUTH SLATED TO PLAY WHITE SOX

By RIGHT FIELD.

The Red Sox, sailing along at a great rate since they took most of the fight out of the White Sox with a great eleven-inning victory in the first game of the series, are ready to battle for a cleanup against the Invaders. A win today and tomorrow is the rallying cry of the Carrigans. As it is Governor's Day, the occasion will be more festive than ever.

"Babe" Ruth gets his turn today at bumbling the Rowlands and if he sets the heavy stickers among the foe down with the regularity which the other Red Sox hurlers have shown it will mean ninety wins for the pace setters tonight. Everything looks good for a cleanup now, with the Red Sox playing with the rush they showed at this time last year and in 1912.

Gregg and Maya may be seen warming up, but the satisfaction of disappointing the Rowlands today belongs to Ruth.

The Red Sox would just as soon look over the slants of some of Rowland's other pitchers or bat again against any of those who have already performed. Benz hasn't shown yet and quite likely will go in today, unless Manager Rowland nominates Wolfgang. Meldon, who has only been out thirteen times this year, stands on the records as having won one and lost three.

It seems fair to presume that "Dutch Valley" Jim Scott may beg for another chance at the Carrigans tomorrow. He is the ranking Rowland hurler, having taken part in forty-three games. He had won twenty-two and lost nine up to the time he arrived on this trip and is tied at .709 with Dauss of the Tigers in trailing Wood and Foster in the uppermost pitching circles of the American League.

The Red Sox won't let up for a minute, even if they have the White Sox on the run for the twenty-first and twenty-second battles of the year between the two clubs, for the Tigers will be here Thursday. Carrigan hopes to see his men keep on going great guns right through this Sox-Sox series, the set of Tiger clashes and the six games with the Indians.

By that time it will be safe to figure out how many games the Red Sox can drop and still stay at the top until the league race is over.

MADISON, Sept. 14.—Hermann von Holt, Galt, F. H. Tayler, Flint Wiser and Arthur Kent joined the Yale squad here and increased the number of candidates to fifty.

In practice Head Coach Hinkey placed Allen at right end. Blodgett played the position last week. "Pie" Way and Kositzky were used as guards, replacing the regulars, Walden and Conroy. Captain Wilson and Otis Guernsey were placed at halfback. The lineup:

FOSTER AND CADY ARE SUSPENDED

The setting down of George Foster, the Red Sox pitcher, for three days as the result of his run-in with Umpire "Silk" O'Loughlin in last Saturday's game with the White Sox, puts an added strain on Carrigan's hurling corps just at a time when things were lined up good.

Foster could have been counted on to go into tomorrow's final game with the White Sox, or the first clash with the Tigers. With Foster out, Carrigan will have to juggle his hurling program until the suspension on the "goose egg" artist is lifted.

Forrest Cady also draws a like sentence. He got gay with "Silk" along with Foster in the first Chicago setto.

SANDY TO MEET LEVINSKY TONIGHT

"Young" Cooper, Providence, vs. "Young" Scollard, Fall River; six rounds.

"SANDY FERGUSON, who bashfully admits that he is not quite as clever as either "Packey" McFarland or Mike Gibbons, will try another one of his celebrated "come back" acts tonight. Chelsea's widely advertised citizen is booked to clash with "Battling" Levinsky in a twelve-round frolic at the Atlas A. A.

A large crowd is expected to turn out to witness the tussle. "Sandy" is not a Jess Willard, but he usually manages to get the "fans" enthusiastic when he is billed to box.

It will be Ferguson's second contest in Boston ring this season. Clashing with Sam McVey at the Triple-A organization several weeks ago, he was stopped in eight frames, but put up a hard, clean contest.

FERGUSON claims he is in better condition for tonight's whirl than when he clashed with McVey. If the Chelsea boxer is beaten by Levinsky, he will have to seek new fields of labor as he will never be given another opportunity to box at a first-class club. Therefore, he can be relied upon fighting at top speed in an effort to dispose or his shifty opponent.

Levinsky has been made a favorite in the betting. This is only natural as he has been boxing steadily of late and is usually in fine condition. The battling person today scaled 175 pounds. He has been in Boston since Sunday and declares he will knock out Ferguson inside of the limit.

LEVINSKY is a high-class scrapper, but Ferguson should show to better advantage against him than he did in his encounter with McVey. Levinsky weighs thirty-five pounds less than McVey, while he is not able to punch as hard as the California negro, who is one of the sweetest hitters in the heavyweight division.

GEORGE ALGER of Cambridge and "Belgium" Brown, the Gloucester mauler, are expected to put up an interesting battle in the semi-final contest of eight rounds. There will also be a couple of good six-round contests.

"THE RABBIT'S COLUMN" By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

IN reading Johnny McGraw's Monday morning review of the two big leagues, I noticed that he has changed his views about the American League pennant race. A few weeks ago McGraw could not see any club but the Red Sox to grab the flag. He was particularly strong for Carrigan's team after it won two out of three games in its last series with the Tigers. He asserted that the Red Sox proved their "class" in that series, and that Jennings' outfit would soon drop out of the running. He powered to it as a series which marked the parting of the ways.

McGRAW now believes that the Tigers will beat out the Carrigans in the final dash to the wire. I do not know why he has altered his views. The smashing work of Jennings' team during the past few weeks may have influenced McGraw. Then, too, the Red Sox evidently did not look like coming champions in their recent series with the Yankees. McGraw probably wrote his review of the clubs before the Red Sox defeated the White Sox Saturday in a sensational eleven-inning game.

I AM not going to try and pick the winner in the American League race. I have not witnessed a game in Johnson's organization this year. Consequently I am not in a position to state whether Boston, Chicago or Detroit has the best club. I would like to see the Red Sox grab the gonfalon as they represent Boston. Then, too, President Lannin of the Red Sox is one of the finest men in baseball and he deserves a winner.

I HAVE received an interesting letter from a reader of the AMERICAN who signed his communication "J. P." He writes:

"I would like you to say something in your column about Walter S. (Wally) Woods, the veteran ball player. Woods is a Portsmouth boy, and even though he is close to the two score mark is still a fine ball player. He pitched in the Colonial League this year and did some good work."

I HAVE always admired Woods as he is a credit to baseball. In the old days he played some wonderful ball for Louisville, Pittsburgh and Chicago. He has a fine pitching arm, but it was his excellent judgment which made it possible for him to win so many games.

WOODS' method of living has been an important factor in his success as an athlete. He does not drink, smoke or chew and has always lived a clean life. It pays to do so and I would advise all boys to follow Woods' rules of living.

THE athlete of today must take fine care of himself if he is to be a success. This is particularly true of the ball player who is required to perform at top speed each day. There have been ballplayers who did not take good care of themselves, but they usually did not last long in the profession. The fast pace which they set sapped their vitality and they were soon replaced by ambitious youngsters who knew how to conduct themselves while off the ball field. Any young man who believes he can dissipate and still hope to gain fame in athletics is deceiving himself. He may secure a little success for a time, but in the long run his method of living will tell upon him and he will be forced into the discard.

COACHES SPEED UP HARVARD PRACTICE

Although stiff and sore from yesterday's 1915 initial workout, the Harvard football squad was put through a strenuous session this morning and the boys are scheduled to take part in another practice this afternoon. Close to ninety men were on hand this morning when the squad logged out on the field headed by Captain Eddie Mahan.

The first morning work was along the same lines as yesterday afternoon's practice, but the men were urged to speed it up a little more. This preliminary work of practising starts, falling on the ball and signals running with the daily routine until about Friday, when it is expected that the men will be instructed in scrimmage work.

PLENTY OF COACHES.

There were a large number of coaches on the field this morning and the candidates were forced to keep on the move every second. Mal Logan and Harry Gardner gave their attention to the quarterbacks. "Bob" Guild, Stan Pennock and Bob Storer looked after the centre me and Gil Brow and Frank O'Brien took the ends in hand.

It now appears as though Lee Leary, who has been the head coach of the ends for a number of seasns, will not be among the coaches this season. Gil Brown has been assigned to Leary's berth, while Frank O'Brien, one of the finest ends that ever represented Harvard, will be Brown's assistant.

O'Brien graduated in 1914, but was unable to get away from business last Fall and therefore did very little coaching. He has a thorough knowledge of the game and is one of the best posted men as regards end playing and therefore will prove a great help to Head Coach Haughton.

SOME PART PUNTING.

W. F. Robinson and Tow Enwright gave a beautiful exhibition of punting during this morning's practice. Both of these boys are exceptionally clever kickers and even at this early date get a lot of drive in their kicks.

The practice this afternoon will be a repetition of yesterday afternoon's and this morning's workouts, but with each practice session the men will be speeded up so that by the first or second week the hardest kind of work can be indulged in.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS BY RIGHT FIELD

EVEN if the Phillies should crack wide open today or tomorrow and never be heard from again this year, the baseball public would, in all fairness, have to hand some laurels to Pat Moran, who took the pilot's berth this year, for doing what he has to date. The Phillies, down in the past performances column with a reputation for cracking before September 1, are still sticking like glue on this glad fourteenth of September. The credit for the adhesion should go, in a large measure, to the Pittsburg citizen, just turning forty, who has done with the Phillies this year what nobody has been able to do before. Yesterday they stuck it out thirteen innings and won, though it didn't nourish Alexander's arm any.

WHEN Charley Dooin suggested Moran for the managerial post with the Phillies no one believed he would accomplish much more than keep the team somewhere in the first division. When the Phillies got under way well some folk began to suggest the pennant for them, but a mighty chorus of "It can't be done" arose. Moran, modest and unassuming, merely kept on plugging with his team.

THOSE who know his record as a player might have expected some mighty clever work from him. He first got into the limelight when he caught for the Montreal club in the then Eastern League in 1899-1900. Along in February, 1901, he was signed to catch for the Boston Nationals, being regarded at that time as the best young catcher ever turned out of the Eastern League.

FROM this town he finally went to the Chicago Cubs, then at the height of their fame and power. There he was in the palmy days of the "Peerless Leader," Frank Chance. Like Johnny Evers, Moran was considered a man of baseball brains. From playing he turned to scouting for big league material. At the present writing he is surely getting away with the managerial end of things.

ONE has to pass it to Moran, as the Englishman would say, but in so doing one is not passing the championship to the Phillies or counting the Braves out of it for this edition or others to follow.

SHOULDN'T be surprised if the Athletics dropped 100 games.

TED LEWIS WILL BE A BUSY YOUTH

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Jimmy Johnston has quite a few matches in view for his lightweight, Ted (Kid) Lewis, before he will meet some good lightweight in Columbus, Ohio.

Matt Hinkel, the Cleveland promoter, is trying to clinch a match between the Englishman and Johnny Griffiths at Akron, the latter part of the month. Jack Hanlon, the Philadelphia promoter, wants to use Lewis with Willie Moore, September 27. Also, according to Manager James, Lewis has two fights on in Denver, one with Young Abe Attell and the other with Jack Torry, the welterweight.

Moore and Gennert Don Tiger Uniforms

PRINCETON, Sept. 14.—The Princeton squad is practically complete and morning and afternoon practice is in order till college opens. Coach Rush gave his men two good workouts, followed by a blackboard talk.

"Billy" Moorse, who starred at halfback in the Yale game last Fall, along with "Red" Gennert, a veteran centre, arrived and participated in the workout. "Buzz" Law, fullback, and Bob Nourse, centre, are about the only veterans who have not put in an appearance. They are expected today.

PLOT TO BAR BIG LOAN LAID TO GERMANS

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were higher at the opening, as a rule, but about all the early trading was in war order issues. Crucible Steel, which was very active, sold at its highest record price, as did Bethlehem. The latter opened at 340 and continued to climb during the first quarter of an hour. General Motors was another strong stock of this class. Railroads were quiet, some showing small losses and others fractional gains. Coppers were firm but dull at the start. The foreign loan matter is now receiving more attention in banking and speculating circles than anything else, and it is also engrossing to business interests. It is believed that there will be no broad movement in stocks until the loan is arranged for. A spirit of conservatism is dominant now. While the demand for stocks is moderate, there is no general disposition to sell with standard issues at the present price level. Bulls maintain that if France and Britain raise here a billion dollars it will make business boom to an extent which will favorably affect every class of securities.

BOR STOCKS THE FEATURE.

Wall street believes that as soon as the envoys of the allies get credit in this country they are here to provide for munitions contracts which in aggregate an immense sum will be awarded. This view is reflected in the heavy buying for the account of concerns which are expected to share in the business. It is believed that there will be no broad movement in stocks until the loan is arranged for. A spirit of conservatism is dominant now. While the demand for stocks is moderate, there is no general disposition to sell with standard issues at the present price level. Bulls maintain that if France and Britain raise here a billion dollars it will make business boom to an extent which will favorably affect every class of securities.

WAR STOCKS THE FEATURE.

Wall street believes that as soon as the envoys of the allies get credit in this country they are here to provide for munitions contracts which in aggregate an immense sum will be awarded. This view is reflected in the heavy buying for the account of concerns which are expected to share in the business.

In New York at 10:15 gains included Allis-Chalmers 1, American Can 1, Bethlehem 2 at 342, Crucible Steel 2 at 124, General Motors 8 at 288, Pressed Steel ½, Studebaker 1¾, Westinghouse ¾, American Woolen closed unchanged, American Locomotive ¾, Beet Sugar ¾, Inspiration ¼, Utah Copper 1, Anaconda ¼, American Smelting ¾, N. Y. Central ¼, Northern Pacific ¼ and Reading ¼.

Among declines were Atchison ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Canadian Pacific ¾, Union Pacific ¾ and Goodrich ¼.

COPPERS VERY QUIET.

Coppers were very quiet in Boston at the opening and later, and there was not much business in since, rails or industrials. But the tone of the local market was good and advances were the rule when there was any price movement. Among gains were Alaska Gold ¼, American Woolen preferred ¼, Butte & Superior ¾, American Zinc ¼, Calumet & Arizona ⅛ and Tamarack 1¾.

METAL OUTLOOK IS GOOD.

The copper trade is as much interested in the foreign loan as bankers. Producers are of the opinion that a large amount of the money realized by Europeans will be spent for electrolytic. That is one reason why large selling interests have refused to sell for 18 cents a pound. Second hands, who have been offering metal at that figure are now disposed to ask more for their metal. In fact, producers believe they will be able soon to command more than they are asking now, and that they are going to have a big business on this account. It may be, if prices go up, the movement will be based more on foreign rather than domestic buying.

Pianos and Musical Instruments

CHAS. S. NORRIS
Kranich & Bach Pianos, 181 TREMONT STREET

Boston American readers now have the opportunity of a lifetime to secure a good piano or player-piano. Our great will give you the world's best pianos and player-pianos at a price-saving that will astonish you.

American Co-Operative Piano Club Plan

HOW WE DO IT

The purpose of this club is to bring together 100 people who want a high-grade piano in their home. When 100 have quickly we can sell 100 pianos in a few days instead of weeks. This literally makes an enormous reduction in our expense, etc.—cuts out quick sales. Then we pay manufacturers spot cash, and they in turn cooperate with us, giving us a big cash discount. Every possible cent of expense we eliminate, and all these savings are taken from the selling price, giving you the best standard-grade pianos at a price and on terms hitherto thought impossible. Through this wonderful power of co-operation you buy pianos and player-pianos of the best known makes at a lower price than you could buy elsewhere—and only that, but also on terms to suit your convenience.

We deliver all pianos promptly—you enjoy your piano while paying for it.

Ten Hundred Baby Carriages; Ten Hundred Sick Babies, Drooping

Imagine Such a Parade in the Down-Town Streets of Boston. How Prompt, How Rich, How GENEROUS Would Be the Response of a Charitable Community. The Floating Hospital Has in ONE SUMMER Done Good to Ten Hundred Sick Babies and Their Tired Mothers—and the Floating Hospital IS IN NEED

WHEN night comes the streets leading to the railroad stations become the beats of panhandlers as well as of policemen.

As a general rule, the professional panhandler is easily recognized. Ninety-nine times out of one hundred he approaches his mark from behind. He likes especially to step up to the good-natured looking, well-dressed man who is studying the offerings of a show window. He wants "ten or fifteen cents, to get a bed."

Different men handle the panhandler in different ways.

ONE Boston business man confesses that he "never turns a man down." He always "gives up." An attorney is generous to such street beggars as appeal to him "face to face." He rejects the applicant, whatever his story, who comes upon him from the rear. A few men say "No" to street beggars of all descriptions.

In Bedford street a man in a blue suit found a panhandler of a new variety.

"He was about thirty-five," the man in the blue suit says. "He had just been shaved. Usually the panhandler wears a two-days' growth of beard. His suit, of gray, was clean. His shoes were clean. He wore a gray soft shirt, with attached collar of the same material.

"I'll swear there were tears in his eyes as he addressed me. He appeared to tremble, as if in fear of arrest. His voice was husky. He 'had' me from the very start.

"'I've come up from Brockton,' he said, 'and I am unable to get work. There are three at home, waiting to hear from me. For two days I have not eaten. Last night I slept on the Common. If you only could—'

"I gave him fifty cents," the man in the blue suit says, "and when he cried—actually cried—I felt so small I could have crawled into the nickel slot in a telephone booth. I walked on, thinking.

"I turned and ran after him. I shoved a dollar into his hands. There was no mistaking his surprise or his gratitude. 'Here, old man,' I said to the carpenter—I THINK he said he was a carpenter—'I cannot let you go like this. Two days without food, and me living in undeserved plenty! Take this card! If you fail to land a job within a day or two, come and see me.'

"Three nights later, in the rain," the man in the blue suit said, "I saw him again. HE did not see me. He was working one of the approaches to the South Station. I saw him speak to three, four, five pedestrians. Two gave him money.

"I have seen him twice SINCE then. He does not speak to me. He is always shaved, brushed, looks the part of the decent chap out of work."

WHY does the AMERICAN tell this story?

A "crusade" against the panhandler, after easy money to buy bad whiskey with? [Whiskey MAKES panhandlers.]

No.

In criticism of the police, who "ought to keep these beggars off the street"?

No. The panhandler sees and recognizes the uniformed policeman long before the patrolman spots the panhandler.

WHY, then.

Because so MANY men—so many GENEROUS men—give such LITTLE thought to the deserving charities all about them.

SOME men—like our easily-touched friend in the blue suit—are reached only by direct contact, direct appeal. They know, if they would but stop to think, that there are in this great city charities innumerable dependent upon a generous public for support. Homes for orphans, homes for the aged, shelters for the erring, hospitals for the incurable, funds for the relief of the afflicted.

Thousands of dollars that might go to these institutions are carried in the ready pockets of the generous and squandered every twelvemonth, because the generous do not know.

This, then, is an appeal, on behalf of the Boston Floating Hospital, to every man whose heart is in the right place.

The Floating Hospital, as our readers are aware, is a free hospital ship for sick children under five. It runs day and night from the latter part of June to the middle of September; takes the bairns and their mothers for a stay on the salt water; substitutes the pure air and breezes of Massachusetts Bay for the stifling rooms and noisome odors of the tenement house.

Twenty-one years ago the Floating Hospital was an EXPERIMENT. In that year there were five day trips, on a hired barge, with volunteer service. Four years later a barge was bought and equipped to care for 160 little patients. The night service was organized in 1898.

The readers of the AMERICAN know the Boston Floating Hospital and are proud of it.

When we go away from home the Floating Hospital is ONE of the Boston institutions we like to hear our friends discuss.

"Yes," we say, "THEY do very well with it."

An opportunity is today presented to every Bostonian to say, instead, "Yes, WE are proud of OUR Floating Hospital; we are very proud of it. We are satisfied that we are doing a splendid work with it. From year to year we shall extend and enlarge this work."

For, toward the close of its twenty-first year, the Floating Hospital is face to face with a deficit of several thousand dollars.

It has happened before, in other years, that the Floating Hospital has been in need of funds. A charitable public has always come to the rescue. Relief will come now, in the same open-handed way.

In a topsy-turvy kind of Summer we have been having a "hot spell" in September. Even in suburban homes, and at seaside cottages, mothers with young babies were heard to complain.

Picture the mother of the tenement house in a hot spell! One, two, three rooms, PERHAPS.

A baby for each room; the cradle in the kichen, where it is "handy." The nestling is pale, wan, drooping, ill. The other children play—down in the crowded street. In this tenement house twenty dinners are being prepared all at once, in twenty tenements. Not the BEST place in the world for a tired and heart-sick mother. A BAD place for a sick baby.

For these is the Boston Floating Hospital.

The manager of the Boston Floating Hospital is Mr. G. Loring Briggs, and the office is at No. 54 Devonshire street, Boston. The treasurer is Mr. George C. Lee, of No. 44 State street.

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets."

More Truth Than Poetry

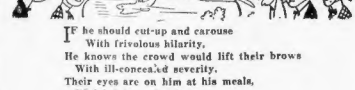
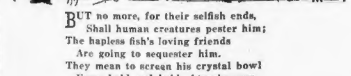
At Last

The friends of the goldfish have organized to protect him from vulgar curiosity.—News item.

THOUGH gentle-hearted, hating strife
And free from animosity,
The goldfish is the prey through life
To gaping curiosity.
In hours of trouble, pleasure, care,
Domestic infelicity
Or sorrow, still he's in the glare
Of pitiless publicity.



IF he should cut-up and carouse
With frivolous hilarity,
He knows the crowd would lift their brows
With ill-concealed severity.
Their eyes are on him at his meals,
Disdainful or admiring;
Their penetrating gaze he feels
At night when he's retiring.



BUT no more, for their selfish ends,
Shall human creatures pester him;
The hapless fish's loving friends
Are going to sequester him.
They mean to screen his crystal bowl
From bold and bald obtrusiveness,
So that he may invite his soul
In glorious exclusiveness.

Humane Education, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Preventive of Crime

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

A DETECTIVE bureau superintendent of twenty-five years' experience testifies that he has known of "very few criminals who were taught to love animals," and that searching for the cause of crime, he finds that "the lack of humane education is the principal one."

George T. Angell, pioneer in the humane movement in America, declared that "every dollar spent for humane education is a dollar spent for the prevention of wars, incendiary fires, railroad wrecks and every form of cruelty and crime."

"The time will come," says Dr. Stillman, president of the Albany Society, "when the State will recognize that a fence at the top of a precipice is better than an ambulance at the bottom; and that humane education will serve as such a fence when it is introduced into the public schools of the State."

By educating the young in the direction of kindness, justice and duty, the State will certainly improve the quality of its citizenship and eliminate a very large percentage of the lawlessness which make; prisons and reformatories necessary and which increases so largely the cost of maintenance of the government.

California First in Protective Legislation and Humane Education.

Roswell C. McCrea, in a survey of the status of the animal defense movement in America (prepared on the Henry Bergh Foundation for the promotion of humane education in Columbia University), concedes California the honor, with Massachusetts and Colorado, of leading the country in protective legislation. It is one of the sixteen States to make humane education a statutory study in the curriculum of its public schools.

The Oakland Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals of Alameda County is the first institution west of the Rockies to inaugurate a special department of ethical and humane education; the work of which is to be systematically planned and carried out.

Writing on the subject of humane education in the public schools, State Superintendent Hyatt, of Public Instruction of California, states that "it is directed at good citizenship and therein deserves our best attention. Kindness is necessary for him who would live successfully and happily with his fellows. A humane man is a better citizen than the one who is not. I would beg all the teachers of the State to get this great movement into their own souls."

The founders of this movement in California are a brother and sister—Milton and Edith Latham. They have extended a generous hand in aid of humanitarian endeavor in its various branches, both in this country and abroad, and have made a serious study of the problems confronting anti-cruelists and believe that through such mental and moral training of the child as will ultimately lead him to an abhorrence of cruelty lies the straight way to the eradication of cruelty in all its forms and wherever it exists; that what the child is taught he will practice largely when a man.

Buddha Taught Great Lesson by Offering Own Life to Save Goat.

All divine souls are filled with mercy. Christ, the greatest and latest of world teachers, declared no sparrow could fall without God's taking note of it. Five hundred years before Christ, Buddha was traveling and heard that a prince was going to sacrifice a goat. He went and asked the prince: "What are you going to do?" The prince told him, and he said: "What for?" The prince said: "To attain to virtue."

Buddha replied: "By sacrificing a goat you cannot be free from sin. If, by sacrificing a life, you can be free from sins, sacrifice me and save the life of that goat. If I have gained any virtue during all of my penace, I will give you that virtue. Let that be yours. Save the life of the goat. I cannot see the goat killed for your sin."

Buddha would not listen to any argument given by the priest. He insisted, saying, "Sacrifice me," and fell prostrate at the feet of the king. The king's heart was moved and he felt very compassionate. Tears rolled down his cheeks and he said, "Lord, who art Thou? I do not know Thee, but Thou art greater than all these priests put together."

And he let the goat go, drove away all the priests, and became a disciple of Buddha.

Here is a list of the States having humane education laws:

California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

It is to be hoped that the balance of our States will speedily follow their example.

The Vital Need of a Great Fleet

By J. W. Muller

Author of "The Invasion of America."

ATTACK on the United States can come only by way of the sea. Even an attack over the northern border would involve first an overseas operation. America's possession and foreign interests can be held or lost only by strength or weakness on the sea.

If that line of defence were absolutely perfect, war never could be brought home to the United States.

To establish such a line of defence, the navy absolutely must be powerful enough to seek the foe and attack him. Though the military axiom that attack is the only safe defence is true of the army, as well as the navy, it is not fatal to an army to fall back on the defensive, whereas it is fatal to a navy almost always.

A defending fleet that is too weak to fight has absolutely no choice today except thus to immure itself. Before the time of aeroplanes and wireless, it had another alternative. It could seek temporary immunity in flight, to seize a later opportunity for striking the foe under favorable conditions. But it cannot do so now. The air will betray it.

A fleet action hereafter will be fearful and quick. When it is ended, the weaker fleet will have been blasted from the face of the waters.

Is the United States Navy strong enough to enter such an engagement with any other fleet?

The answer of the Navy Year Book for 1914, issued by direction of Congress, is given in the following tables:

RELATIVE ORDER OF PRESENT WARSHIP TONNAGE.

Great Britain	2,157,850
Germany	951,712
United States	765,133

RELATIVE ORDER WHEN VESSELS NOW BUILDING ARE COMPLETED.

Great Britain	2,714,108
Germany	915,712
France	599,915
United States	894,899

If the constant advice of the General Board of the Navy had been accepted by Congress, the United States fleet should consist now of at least thirty-two first-class battleships and dreadnoughts, all of a type fit for the first line.
